a message to the class of '36

periods of elation and depression are necessary portions of an ordinary person's life; we are at the present rapidly approaching another period of elation; another period when we become more or less selected. we have in back of us grammar school, where a majority of our class-mates dropped, by branching out into varied fields of endeavor; and high school when a lesser number left the studious sedentary ways, to fill vacancies in the business world, while we advanced yet another step toward graduation from the state normal school.

we are at another milestone in our lives. we have spent here a portion of our lives in the endeavor to become teachers. some of us, a much smaller proportion than previously, will undoubtedly find it necessary to enter other occupations, and we shall be better prepared for this by our advanced studies. because of this conditioning we will all become social-minded individuals, no matter what field we enter. we will not be happy unless we are able to aid other people to attain their goals. we will be tolerant of other's opinions. we must be these types of individuals because we have been chosen for, and have received certain definite training in, the service and social fields.

there is one item, however, that we must not forget, whether we are grateful or not for the education we have received in this institution. we have spent three or four pleasant years in an environment which has aimed to make us tolerant persons. in our own classes we have associated with all types of teachers and all types of personalities. we can be definitely thankful for this opportunity and we should be proud of the institution that is equipped to give us that benefit.

what we do about these items of education is now our charge. we can become social assets or deteriorate to become liabilities, but we must be grateful for the chances we have had to make us persons.

i believe that we will do well to be proud of this state institution; thankful that its faculty is as tolerant with us as they have been; and that we should be particularly grateful to the administration for its liberality of thought in guiding this seat of learning to wider and more varied fields in which we have opportunity to become better persons. for these things, no matter what we are, we must be proud to identify ourselves with the new jersey state normal school at newark.

"life is real, life is earnest". but, ray, don't be so stern and serious, for you are covering your truest charms. a poker face may be an asset, but a happy-go-lucky smile is more suitable. you really are well liked, a good sport, and ambitious in your own conscientious way. we want to know you better. can we?

otto w. decker

443 forest street

otto is one of those modest industrial arts men. his friends can testify to his business sense, however. want to sell anything? ask otto.

charlie's list of activities offers a clear picture of his versatility, qualities of leadership and athletic powers. section leader 1; pres. junior class 2; chairman athletic committee 2; student council 1, 2; glee club 1, 2, pres. 3; pres. student org. 3; executive board 3; s.l.f. committee; men's show; human adventure; archery club 1, 2; swimming club 2, 3, 4; riding club 2; pi alpha tau; kendall society; gym team 3, 4; varsity basketball 1, 2, 3, captain 4; eastern states conference 2, 3, 4.

martin j. dougherty

union city, n. j.

"doc" would rather talk about guns than do most anything else. but he does engage in other activities as may be seen from the list of his various activities. outside of these i think "doc" will be remembered most for his version of "the hunter and the three little trees." his activities were as follows: norms 1, 2, 3, 4; intramural basketball, men's show, vice pres. of senior class, student council, senior tea committee and pi alpha tau.

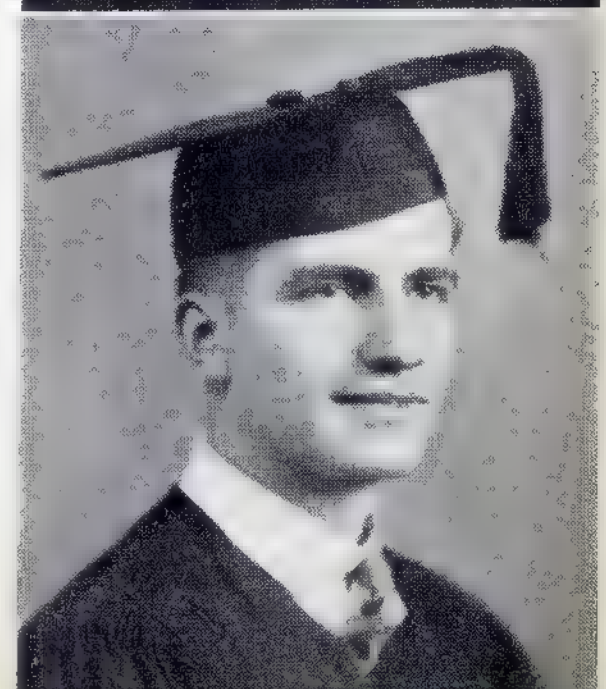

charles o. finley

a flaming youth from "ioway", or maybe it was illinois, —"out home", no matter how you say it. charlie's deep mellow bass voice, his good sportsmanship and enjoyable humor are liked by all. beside being a scout-master he is an isaac walton's complete angler. he is the one who has not succumbed to the lure of the terpsichorean art. clubs are archery 1, 2, 3; mixed chorus 2, 3; men's glee 1, 2; class social leader 1; men's show 3; and p.a.t.

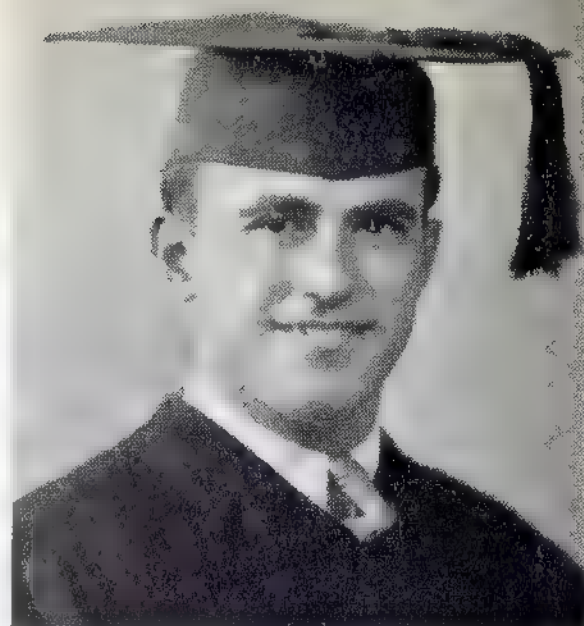

j. nicholas fiore

23 belvidere avenue

jersey city, n. j.

besides being noted for his attraction to blondes, "nick" has also been starred on the j. v. basketball team for four years. he also found time to play tennis for his last three years, be a member of the library council, on the a. a. council, besides acting in spanish moon and the men's show. the archery club, the bookbinding club and the activities club accounted for the rest of his time.

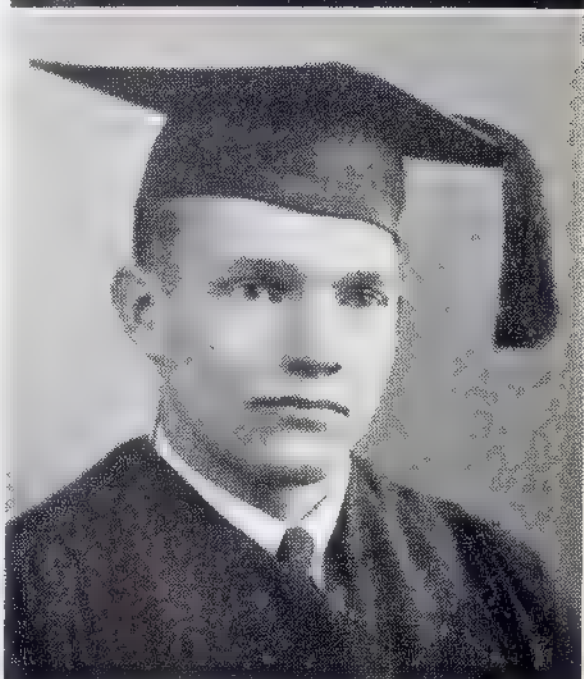

albert casteline gross

216 vassar avenue

newark, n. j.

"al" possesses a beaming smile and a fine personality and in addition has proved himself to be very versatile. he was a member of the basketball team 1, 2, 3, 4; track 3; deck tennis 3, 4; and a member of the swimming club 2, 3, and 4. his club affiliations were aviation club 1; archery 2; and activities 3. in the "mens' show" and "spanish moon" he proved his talents and assisted invaluabley with the presentation of the "human adventure". he is also a member of pi alpha tau.

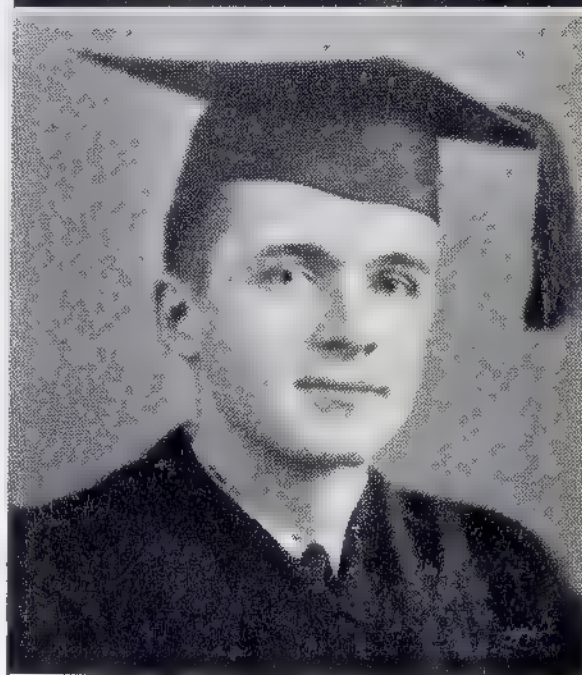

leonard c. johnson

75 third avenue

newark, n. j.

leonard's conscientious efforts combined with his keen reasoning, clear logic, and fine sense of humor secured for him success as a leader—section and social leader 1; class v. pres. 1; class pres. 2, 3; international relations club 2; men's show 2; archery club 2; men's glee 2; student council 2, 3; president 3; s. l. f. 2, 3, 4; theatre guild 3, 4; college social committee 3; pres. curriculum committee 3; pi alpha tau; manager tennis 3; library council 4; pres. student body 4; executive board 4; eastern states conference 2, 3, 4; kendall society.

Would that I could hold
a Kendall to
you—sincerely,
Len. Johnson

howard r. junker

32 morse avenue

east orange, n. j.

"how" is quite a man—popular with the girls and popular with the faculty. his antics and wit probably caused the former (who said something about a moustache?); his record and executive ability the latter. take a deep breath and read this: freshman class president; student council 2; recording secretary student organization 3; assembly committee 2, 3, 4; archery club 1, 2; norms 3, 4; tennis team 1, 2, 3, 4 (manager 2); library council 1; student loan fund committee; eastern states conference 1, 2, 3, 4.

H.R. Junker
I want to know
you!!

walter kabis

15 cedar avenue

newark, n. j.

"k-b" is a brawny lad from the industrial arts group who makes a mark in the college which will linger long in the minds of both faculty and students (particularly the ladies). walt's willingness to help and his pleasant smile are only two of his many assets which enable him to accomplish the following: science club 1, 2, 3, 4; pres. 2; student vice pres. 3, 4; executive board 3, 4; student council 2; eastern states conference 2, 3, 4; pi alpha tau; s. l. f.; swimming club 2, 3, 4; riding club 2; intramural basketball; men's show; human adventure.

serious at work, serious at play;
plenty of humor every day;
big hearted to others; makes just the sort of whom people say, "he's a good sport".

camera club 1, 2, 3, 4; basketball squad 1, 2, 3, 4; library council 4; track squad 3.

john lucas
103 haledon avenue paterson, n. j.

jack is quiet but effective. he has been a basketballer from the beginning. cars? yes, three of them during his stay with us—all "cherries". "brod" has been an asset to the class as his marks show. basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; track 3; deck tennis 3, 4; swimming club 2, 3, 4; archery club 1, 2; activities club 2, 3; class secretary 3; men's show and human adventure.

john w. oster
297 columbia avenue jersey city, n. j.

john's customary silence gives no indication of the deep and worthwhile thoughts which those of us who know him realize lie therein. archery club 1, 2; glee club 1, 2; men's show 2; camera club 3, 4.

benjamin t. phillips
maple avenue andover, n. j.

through his capable leadership and participation in educational, social, and extra-curricular activities, our "ben" will be an asset to any school system. he was formidable as president of the norms 4; section leader 2; manager of basketball team and stage arrangements 3, 4. he was active in camera club 1; norms theater guild 2, 3, 4; intramural basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; cheer leading 2; and pi alpha tau and men's show 2.

arthur f. roll

520 highbridge avenue grantwood, n. j.

"art" went about his way quiet and unassuming. while he may have seemed a bit rough, underneath he had a heart of gold that made him "aces high". here are a few of his social achievements: archery 1, 2, 4; library council 4; sr. tea committee 4; pi alpha tau; men's show.

albert l. rothbard

135 maple avenue newark, n. j.

in al's freshman year he joined the camera club and became president in his third year. he also belonged to the library council, becoming treasurer in his fourth year. he has been one of our peppy cheerleaders for the past three years. in his second and third years he was on the reflector and year book staff and became business manager of both in his fourth year. he also was on the student council in his third year and attended the eastern states educational conference.

william f. selinske

278 manhattan avenue jersey city, n. j.

bill is the original "strong silent man". quiet, honest, and conscientious effort is shown in everything he does. his easy going nature helps him make friends readily. bill was a member of the glee club, the camera club, and the archery club during his four year stay in the institution. he was also active in intramural basketball, the men's show, and the senior tea committee. during the third year, bill was secretary of the industrial arts class.

george c. stryker

440 hickory street

arlington, n. j.

personality, life, pep; a wide awake interest in everything going on about him (not excluding the weaker sex), a fellow who is an asset to any group. who is it? george! his activities are proof of his versatility. vice-president of aviation club 1; archery club 2; men's glee club 2; international relations club 2; swimming club 2, 3; class treasurer 2; representative-at-large 3; student council 3, 4; library council 3, president 4; pi alpha tau.

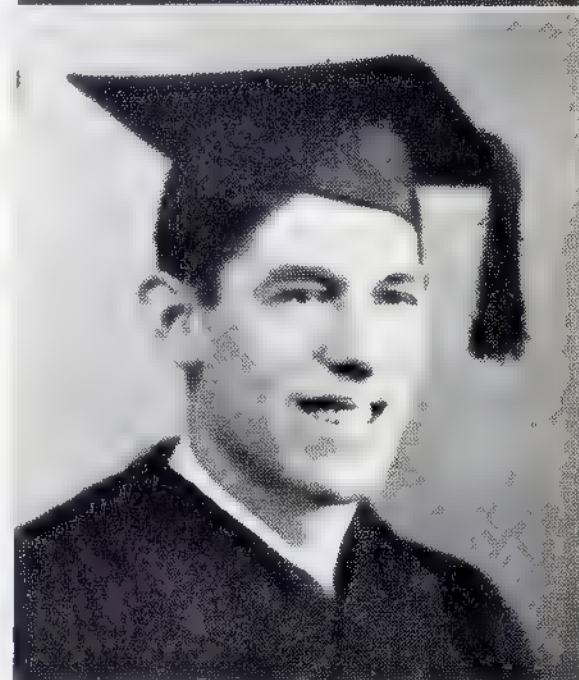

vincent john sullivan

12 western avenue

jersey city, n. j.

vincent is truly a man that sees his job and does it. vincent has participated in many activities of the school such as the camera club, norms theatre guild, baseball team, and student loan fund committee. he was also the vice-president of the industrial arts class in his junior year, and one of the vice presidents of the senior class. he rendered a valuable service to the institution by organizing a book-binding club.

charles fisher

32 fleming avenue

newark, n. j.

as charlie's record is perused we find a shining example of the well-balanced personality. in his freshman year charlie belonged to the art club, the camera club, and the gym team. his second year was devoted to the international club, but he found time to work on the gym team. the art and camera clubs and the mixed chorus took up his time in the third year, and the fourth year was the climax. charlie was elected president of the international relations club, chairman of the science exhibit, and of the i. r. c. college program survey, and secretary of the mixed chorus.

rose licht

131 hillside avenue

newark, n. j.

rose is noted for her readiness to help others and her bustling activity. she joined the art club in her freshman year and she displayed an active interest in it all the time she was here. in her second year she saw an opportunity to correlate art with the marionette club. in the third year rose joined the dance study club. rose is very valuable to the fine arts class and she will be sincerely missed, not only because of her willingness to work but because of here cheerful, optimistic disposition.

beatrice spinney

upper montclair, n. j.

beatrice came to us after two years of study at ohio wesleyan and how they must miss her. she is noted for here ability to knit, so is it any wonder that she has been one of the main supporters of the needles and stitches club for these two years? this year bea has branched, out and become an equally ardent supporter of the international relations club and basketball club.

catherine v. tetkowski

173 avon avenue

newark, n. j.

teddy, as she is more familiarly known, is on of the original fine art students. she is an active singer in the glee club. in her freshman year, the glee club lured her and continued to hold her interest for four years. in the third year the interest became so strong that she joined the mixed chorus. in her fourth year teddy joined the art club. she is also a knitting enthusiast and many sweaters were designed and artistically executed during lunch hours.

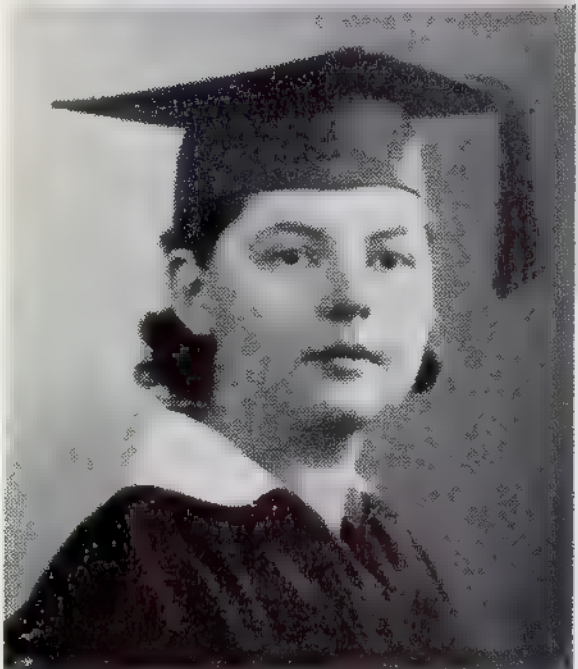

william babcock

27 new providence road

mountainside, n. j.

the rattling of swords, pistols, and other war materials will always bring the memory of bill to our minds. he's a first-rate collector and hoarder of just such interesting articles. activities that claimed his loyalty were—aviation club 1; science club 2, 3; men's glee club 2, 3. then, too, bill took part in the famous men's show back in '34.

helen baller

163 scheerer avenue

newark, n. j.

a dramatic story-teller is this young lady. she has enlivened many a dull class for discussion with anecdotes of personal and vicarious experiences. for her school activities helen has connected herself with the marionette guild, social studies club, international relations club, and the swimming club. in her freshman year she occupied the position of corresponding secretary of the class.

mary c. berardesca

146 n. 12th street

newark, n. j.

mary joined our ranks just this year to work for her degree. within this time she has shown herself a quiet but emphatic student. the international relations club and the handcraft club have been her chief interests.

geneveer l. blay

53 linden avenue

east orange, n. j.

the fact that geneveer has been a science club member for four years may explain to puzzled classmates why her notes are so systematic and clear-cut. besides the scientific bent, this girl has given her support to the library council and to the archery club.

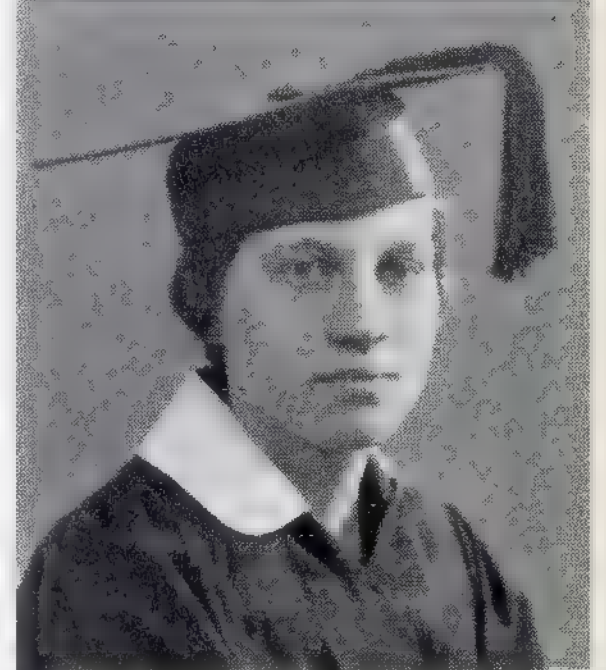

ruth butler

hillside, n. j.

behold here a person who holds wit unlimited. besides spreading laughter, ruth could also be given the title of "pal". she's a grand person. three years in the art club added artistry to her accomplishments, but did not suppress her effervescence. in athletic lines ruth took up archery and deck tennis. she reached the deck tennis finals.

doris creamer

230 locust street

roselle, n. j.

athletics claim first place in doris's affections; for in her second, third and fourth years she played forward position on the girls' basketball team. in her fourth year she served as secretary manager of the women's sports club. music rates next, the orchestra claiming her for four years, and the glee club 2, 3. the art club was another interest in her freshman year.

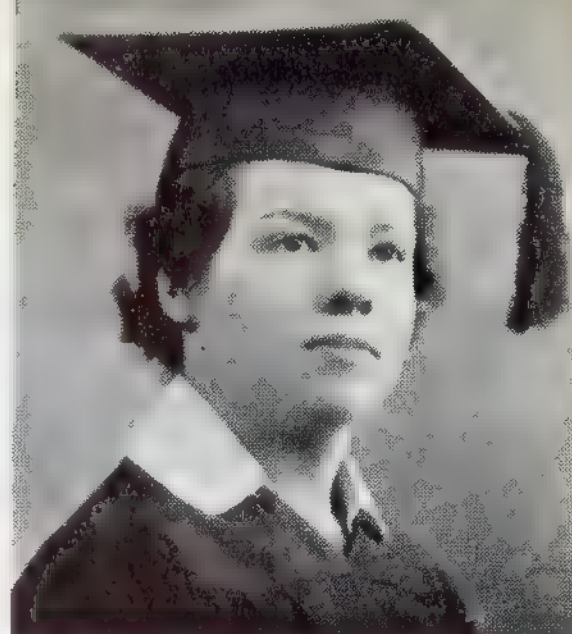

ruth caroline dorer

53 fairfield avenue

west caldwell, n. j.

handy with knitting needles, ruth is an envy to behold. her other abilities took expression in these many activities—dance study club 1, 4; girls' basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; social studies club 2; psychology club 3; international relations 3, 4; mixed chorus 3; vice-president of the girls' sports club 4.

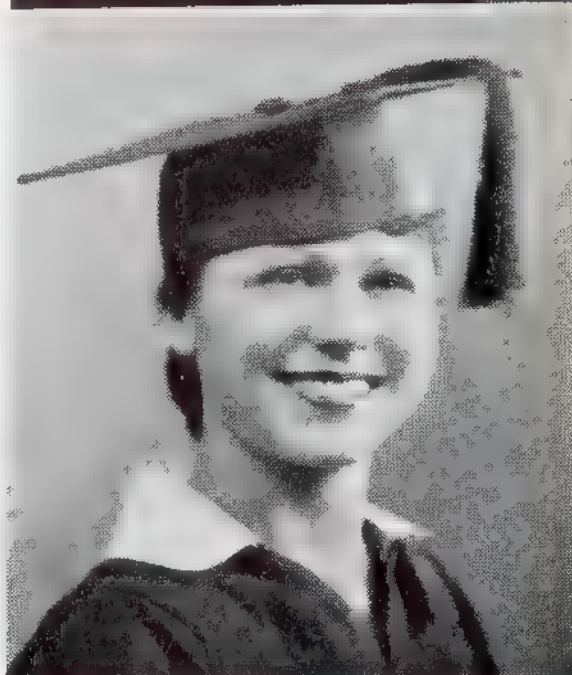

lucy h. doser

91 komorn street

newark, n. j.

possessed of a silver voice, lucy has been a weaver of spells in literature classes. then, too, she has made use of it as a member of the dramatic club 1, 2; and in the glee club 3, 4. the glee club's spring concert last year was enriched by her reading of a beautiful prologue.

margaret e. estock

40 ashwood avenue

summit, n. j.

a smile a day keeps margaret good natured all the time. dancing club took her time in the freshman year. the camera club held her for the remaining three years. however, the international relations gave her an opportunity for modern day discussion this past year.

mary fallon

300 hoboken road

east rutherford, n. j.

mary is an intense person, and has worked well and hard in all her undertakings. clubs which used her talents were dancing club 1, 4; nu lambda kappa 1, 2, 3; reflector staff 1, 2, 3; social studies club 2; home economics club 3; year book staff 3; handcraft club 4.

pauline etta germansky

199 twenty-second street

irvington, n. j.

a half of the whole (the other half being bea), pauline is lots of fun to know. she has lavished her talents on the norms theatre guild, social studies club, needles and stitches, and the international relations club.

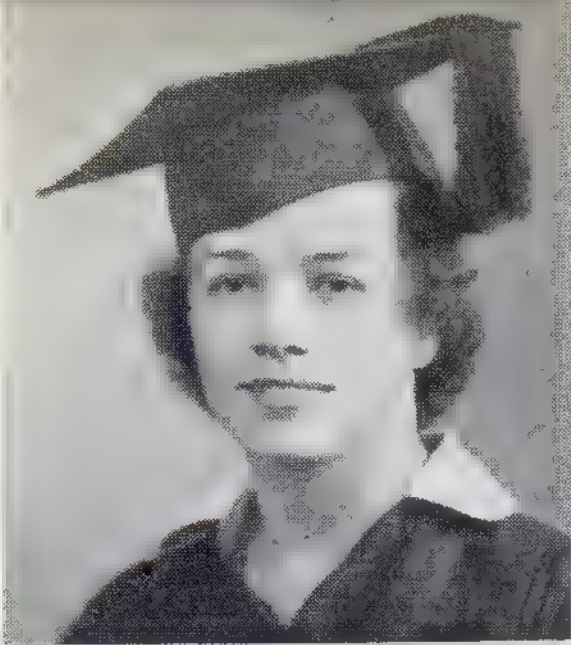

beatrice greenblat

130 myrtle avenue

irvington, n. j.

here is the other inseparable of the p. g. and b. g. twosome. bea is a tender person, and wishes well everybody who knows her. the norms theatre guild, social studies club, needles and stitches, and international relations club have been her active interests. her quality of leadership showed up again when she served as secretary-treasurer of needles and stitches.

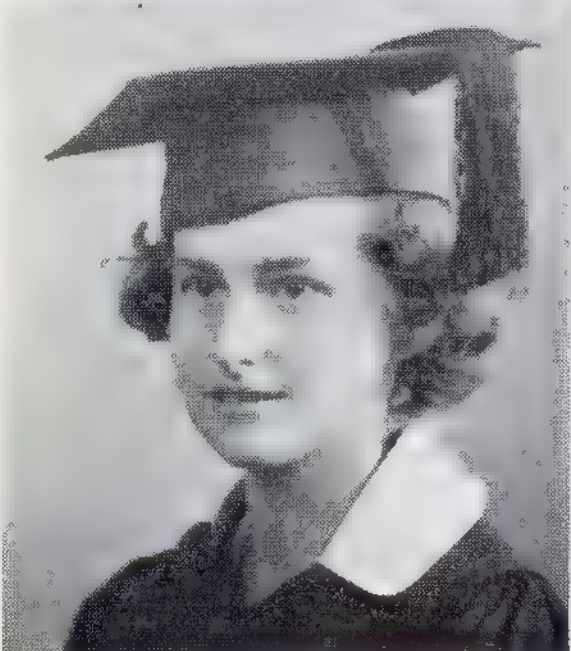

alice herron

nutley, n. j.

"who is sylvia?" we used to wonder, but now we know and could tell shakespeare much concerning her. for under the name of alice she has joined with the glee club, the international relations club, and needles and stitches in our school. she hasn't hidden herself entirely, for classmates have elected her section treasurer; vice-president of freshman class, section social leader 3; and vice president of the glee club 3.

*Freevin
3rd always Alice*

dorothy m. irwin

1413 w. clinton avenue

irvington, n. j.

dot's not so serious as of yore, but she's still as intellectual as ever. we believe she is going to travel; for every spring the "wanderlust" comes upon her and disrupts her equilibrium. the art club, library council, and nu lambda kappa found her capable. then the "knitting bug" bit her and she became vice-president of the needles and stitches in this last year.

marion kantor

east orange, n. j.

marion is a serious student, but a rollicking, gay-hearted companion. she has been active in her clubs and classes, for she appeared in the "opera matinee for the norms" in '33; served as section leader for her second year president of the social studies club 3; member of the student council 3; and a library council worker the four years she has been with us.

helen m. kenny

57 vreeland avenue

midland park, n. j.

the "eyes" have it with helen, for her seeing organs are lovely to see. then, too, she's a grand girl to know. for the story of her accomplishments visit the camera club, the glee club, the mixed chorus, needles and stitches (secretary 3), kindergarten club, and the international relations club.

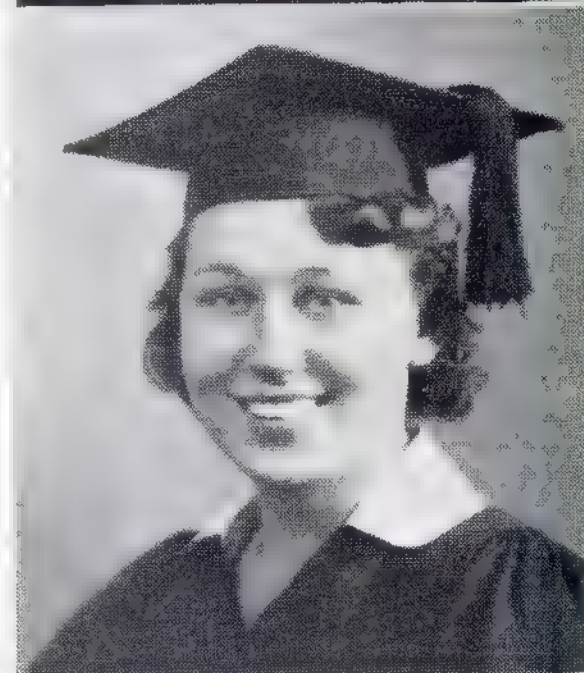

rose m. kent

312 7th avenue

newark, n. j.

rose is fun to know, even though she turns serious sometimes when the gang "rags" her. she laughingly took charge of her freshman section for the first term and they liked it so much, she was re-elected for the second term. the dance study club, swimming club, psychology club, needles and stitches, and the international relations club claimed her leisure time.

magdalyne laucius

elizabeth, n. j.

if socialism means ability to mix well, then teddy's a socialist. prom committees always included her, special programs (parent's night, alumni day) used her talents, committees for senior tea and jewelry needed her, and she filled the positions of section social leader and section treasurer. however, she still found time to belong to the camera club, international relations club, social dancing club, and music study club.

fannie levine

14 walcott terrace

newark, n. j.

fannie has filled her time with activities in the dance study club, the social studies club, and the glee club. she has found ample time to be a real pal of tillie's and to take care of "subbing" calls, besides.

florence c. lewis

135 johnson avenue

newark, n. j.

flo is a loyal efficient worker and has accomplished much. friendliness is her dominant characteristic, activities included membership in the art club, library council, and needles and stitches. newspaper work has been a highlight with flo and she held important positions with the "reflector", assistant editor for the paper and for the "norm" 2; editor in chief of the year book and the school paper 3; student council and alumni representative of class of '35.

anna agnes lopresti

323 e. front street

plainfield, n. j.

a small person, but she has lots of energy. anne came from n. j. c. in her second year and stayed on to complete the degree year. social studies club 2, 3; needles and stitches 4; cinema club 4; have claimed her attention. the international relations club has found her invaluable as acting secretary, treasurer, and an executive board member.

margaret m. lynes

664 monroe avenue

elizabeth, n. j.

peggy's poetry is the delight and awe of our class. she has been an active member of the nu lambda kappa, holding the offices of treasurer, president; manager of scroll. that she is cooperative, friendly, and able is shown in the numerous leadership positions: social leader; section treasurer, 4th year; corresponding secretary; student council 4; other activities are: membership in the library council, norms, basketball, and baseball.

mary cecelia mc andrew

41 william street

north arlington, n. j.

a born optimist who usually sees the silver linings is rare, but we managed to have one in our class. mary used her cheerfulness quietly, but effectively. the organizations that she lined up with while here appear as follows: art club, marionette guild, international relations, psychology club, and needles and stitches.

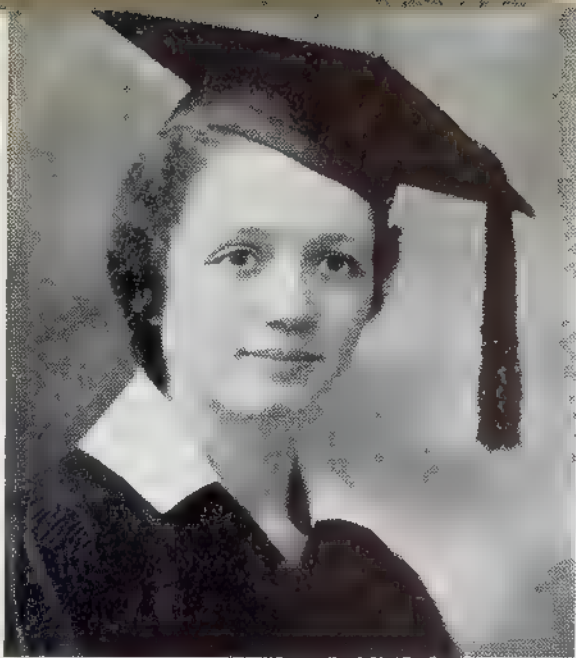

anita netwch

207 cavell street

roselle, n. j.

if you wish to see lovely hair, drop in on anita and gaze your fill. then, another interesting comment about her is the fact that she hardly ever gets cold, and doesn't mind zero weather half so much as the rest of us do. anita's special hobbies centered on the dancing club, swimming club, marionette guild, social dancing, camera club, mixed chorus, and international relations club.

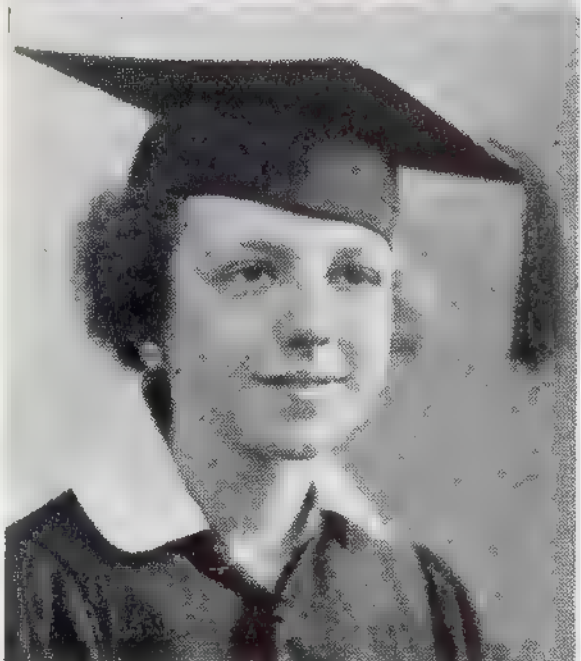

dorothy petillo

117 east passaic avenue

nutley, n. j.

expert in tatting work, dot has a great deal of lovely pieces to show. if you would like to learn, just ask her, for she's always willing to do a good turn. art club, social studies club, and the archery club claimed dot's affections. the glee club required her love, and she gave it unstintingly. she participated in last year's spring concert.

monica rist

carlstadt, n. j.

singing and smiling are two particular, fine characteristics which monica possesses. the glee club made much use of the first named for three years, while her classmates have welcomed the second for all four. dancing club, swimming club, and the craft club used much of her time. monica also was a member of the year book staff in her third year.

susan russell

216 ridgewood avenue

glen ridge, n. j.

sue was a welcome addition just this last year. her original alma mater was glassboro. her interests center around children's libraries, short-story writing, and baseball (refer to the seniors for information concerning the last). while at newark, sue joined the handcraft club and the press board.

Where the Normal School meets - at Hazaroff's - Good luck Sue

tillie scheinberg

299 stuyvesant avenue

lyndhurst, n. j.

tillie is another good stitcher, and has made some very nice wearing apparel. she likes to work, and puts energy into everything she does. dancing club, glee club, and the marionette guild proved the most powerful attractions to her. she participated in the glee club's spring concert of '35.

mary gene sharpe

1680 e. mountain street

pasadena, california

mary gene came to us from mills college in california last september. we have enjoyed her stories of sunny california and other interesting places she has visited. here at newark she joined the psychology club. after graduation, she will again return to the land of orange blossoms to teach.

estelle g. spielvogel

484 south 16th street

newark, n. j.

if you're looking for fun, see "shorty". she can think of songs, plays, and jokes to entertain any person at any time. besides that she is a livewire, and an endless source of important facts to remember. estelle (to add dignity) was one of the members of the cast in "trial by jury" presented by the dramatic club in '33. the dancing club, swimming club, and gym club were other activities in which she joined. she was section treasurer in her second year..

*file - you have like human this

gertrude m. strong

201 third street

newark, n. j.

"trip the light fantastic toe"—gert's specialty. she has appeared on her toes in many dance recitations. because of her great delight in this activity, get has been with the dance study club throughout her four years at our school. besides this she was a member of the international relations club, swimming club, and was section treasurer in her third year.

edythe wessel

92 whitney road

short hills, n. j.

a person of serious mind with a good supply of enthusiasm is edythe. the glee club was her chief interest in freshman year, but nu lambda kappa claimed her for the remaining three. in the literary society she served as business manager of the "scroll" 2, treasurer of club 3; assistant editor of the "scroll" 3; vice-president of club 4; and literary editor of the "scroll" 4.

ethel m. widerman

490 jelliff avenue

newark, n. j.

kind thoughts and kind actions fill ethel's days with us. she has studied well, and yet has been a person of marked friendliness. the psychology club, dancing club, international relations club, and the library council have claimed ethel's loyalty.

helen louise gathany

15 grant avenue

a winsome, petite miss who has the knack of saying a very clever thing at just the right time. the art club has been her interest during her stay at school, and she has been recognized for her beautiful work in design. helen is also very much interested in writing, and has shown a great talent in her poetry and short stories—"a big girl in a small package."

alice june gelernter

176 shelley avenue

elizabeth, n. j.

june's attractive presence and charm of manner, her sensitive reaction to beauty, and her willingness to give that artistic judgment to various groups that needed it, have made her an invaluable member of the school. as vice-president of the art club, social leader, member of the library council, and art editor of the year book, she has contributed much to the life of the school.

lucille g. linder

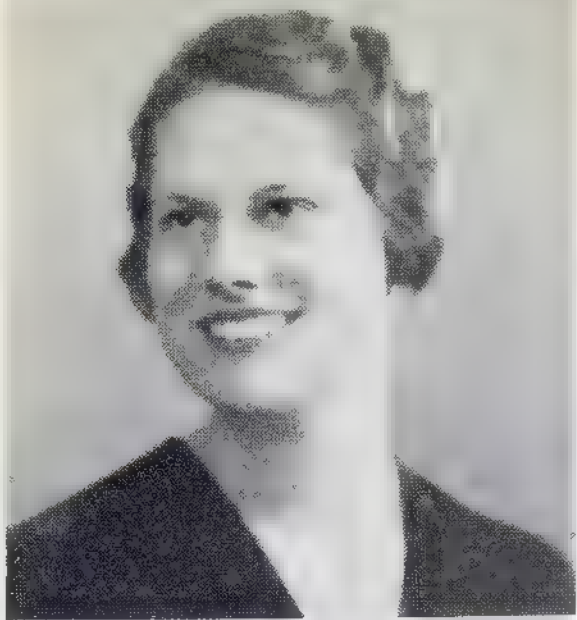

133 hawthorne avenue

glen ridge, n. j.

"lucy's" irish wit has been a constant source of pleasure to the people who have worked with her. she has been a member of the art club during her stay at school, and has helped a great deal with her fine knowledge of crafts. "a craftsman" in everything.

*Dearest Lil!

doris may

11 norman rd.

doris' fine executive ability and sense of value have helped make her a worthy member of the kendall society as well as the art club. her beautiful voice has thrilled the music study club, and she has graced the glee club and madrigal society. "a scholar and a gentlewoman".

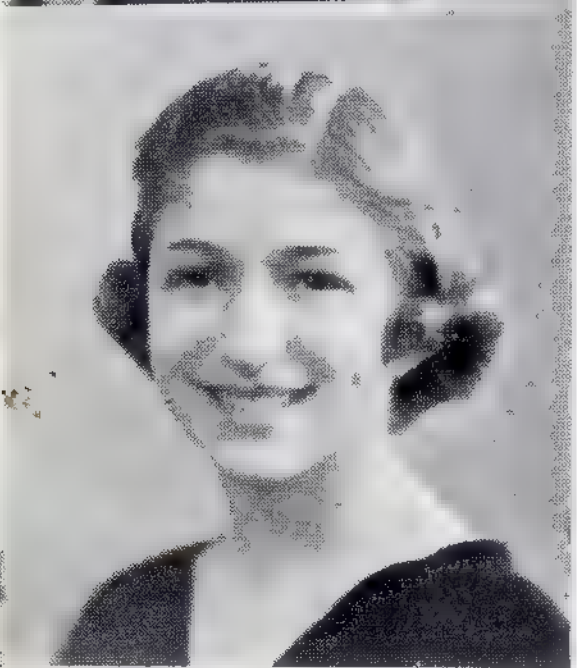

sylvia adelman

734 west fourth street

plainfield, n. j.

a little miss in between two cheer leaders—none other than syl. she drew plenty of shouts and cheers as cheer leader. sylvia is also dramatically inclined and her achievements in the norms theatre guild consist of being chairman of the costume committee, participant in spanish moon, and the christmas pageant. sylvia is also a member of the cinema club.

I know you'll make a swell teacher but you make an even sweller! Your friend Sylvia

celia asher

332 seymour avenue

newark, n. j.

that gleam of mischief in "cele's" eyes" is not misleading. she's grand fun and one of those friends who never let you down. cele has been active in the camera club, library council, psychology club, and cinema club.

claire bernice bachman

561 compton avenue

perth amboy, n. j.

a little girl but a fine celloist and secretary. claire's seat in the orchestra will be rather difficult to fill. she has been a member of the glee club, music study, string ensemble, dance study club, social studies, and swimming clubs.

eleanor ballar

71 grant place

irvington, n. j.

do you remember the beautiful young lady and her partner who shyly accepted the little prize at the freshman dance? eleanor is consistent in her interests and so the dance study club has boasted of her three year membership and paid her one of the highest tributes by electing her president. eleanor also participated in the performance of spanish moon.

jeannette bellows

207 leslie street

newark, n. j.

two smiling black eyes, a flashing set of teeth, and two charming dimples to enhance the ever-pleasing smile. little wonder then that jeannette is such a favorite as a social leader, cheer leader, and as a member of the camera club, social studies club, mixed chorus, dance study club, and cinema club: jeannette also was on the senior tea committee, and spanish moon committee.

lots of luck to a grand classmate and a friend worth knowing! Love - Claire

I had a swell time! your brown linen! It's hucky!

lillian bernstein

111 east second avenue

roselle, n. j.

, active, enlivening lil. do you know another "good story"? but lil behind her gayety has plenty of good common sense and she does use it. the norms theatre guild, music, study, or swimming clubs will substantiate this. here initiative and executive ability were demonstrated as social leader and as a member of the social committee for the junior dance and senior tea. she has been active in the forum club and, last but not least, a member of the kendall society.

janet a. bishoff

west main street

brookside, n. j.

we who know you well often wished you were not so retiring, so that all might appreciate the value of the helpful hints and kind understandings that you unveiled in your work in the art, music study, psychology, marionette, and international relations clubs.

Thank To a girl who livened up many a class! Janet dorothy jane bishop

95 fairmount avenue

newark, n. j.

Industry reaps its fair reward. we know dot derived much satisfaction from her activity as treasurer and as member of the social studies club. may we add that we wish her boundless success in her harmonica lessons.

florence elizabeth boylan

55 grand street

iselin, n. j.

florence's soft voice and pleasant smile bespeak the harmony within her reliability, versatility, and keen insight spell success. florence is a member of the women's glee club, swimming club, social studies, and science clubs, international relations, and music study clubs.

You're a girl I really admire! May we be friends of Florence!

grace irene braidwood

63 catalpa avenue

perth amboy, n. j.

we know grace as a quiet, sophisticated, young lady. but the women's glee club, music study, mixed chorus, and orchestra know her as a fine musician; while the swimming and international relations clubs soon discovered her other potentialities.

bernard braverman

290 orange avenue

irvington, n. j.

he is destined to serve, a born politician, and an authority on parliamentary procedure. all plus a really brilliant mind. all bernie's discussions enriched the meetings of the forum club. he is also a student council representative, a senior class representative on the house committee, and constitution committee, and we mustn't omit his part in the men's show and his presence at the hotel pennsylvania conference.

I'll never forget the party. It was grand. Bernard

helen e. bromirski

359 second street

lyndhurst, n. j.

spontaneous, enthusiastic, her good nature shining all over her radiant countenance—that's helen. her halo of golden ringlets add to a natural attractiveness. helen has been a grand friend and comrade in work and play to all. her interests in club centered in the camera and dance study clubs.

Remember me Helen.

wanda a. budnicki

105 broad street

perth amboy, n. j.

here is a prominent favorite. the secret of her success is her vivaciousness and her optimism, well-discovered during the liberalized curriculum experiment. wanda also belongs to the art club, psychology, and dance clubs, and was assistant treasurer of the class.

lucille e. buka

755 clinton avenue

newark, n. j.

lucille's ability as a fine pianist was revealed as accompanist for the dance study club and an accompanist at patron's night. lucille is also domestically inclined and was a member of the needles and stitches club.

dominica l. cangemi

summit, n. j.

"minnie dislikes westerners". outside this she is an ideal chum, student, and what have you. minnie also plays baseball very well. she has been a member of the marionette club, needles and stitches club, and music study club.

samuel chernatsky

638 south belmont avenue

newark, n. j.

judging from sam's popularity we don't hesitate to say that a basketball hero is equally as prized as a football man. sam has felt that exercise makes an active brain. he was a varsity basketball member, captain of the team, and a member of the gym team. all this intersprinkled with a membership in the men's glee club, a little acid as vice-president in the science club, some more music notes in the mixed chorus, and a few references in the library council.

edith c. clash

336 harrison avenue

roselle, n. j.

earnest and not overloquacious, edith's presence has been a source of much delight. her activity lists were few but sincere as well as was her membership in the glee and needles and stitches clubs.

evelyn colon

46 east 9th street

clifton, n. j.

cheerful, optimistic, we've enjoyed knowing evelyn and sharing her friendliness with all. evelyn is one of those individuals who always takes time out to smile and to be pleasant to everyone. her activities included membership in the glee club, and needles and stitches club.

juliet farrington colyer

93 old short hills road

millburn, n. j.

overflowing with the thought of living, juliet exists just to live. she has evicted many a laugh with her wit during the liberalized curriculum experiment. she was a member of the glee, swimming, needles and stitches, camera, and music study clubs.

elizabeth regina cowan

24 south livingston avenue

livingston, n. j.

truth is beauty. elizabeth's genial manner is based on amiability and sincerity. she participated in the activities of the woodward science club during her stay with us.

zita muriel cullen

330 mt. prospect avenue

blondes are still the annual favorites. and there is no question of zita's social success! her leadership was well exhibited as class social leader, as a member of the class social committee, the social dancing class, the social committee of the athletic association girls' sport club, swimming club, dance study, and basketball clubs, and as a member of the norms theatre guild.

a dynamic miss endowed with one of the immortal talents; natural acting ability. we can't think of a better interpretation of any of the parts played by flashie in "thank you doctor", "trifles", and many others. jul is by no means a one sided personality for she is an active member in the kindergarten club, and library council.

214 wainwright street

newark, n. j.

the "hostess"—none other than belle. yearly her delicious cookies have been devoured, especially by the male elements. besides being a member of the refreshment committee, belle has been the chairman of the social committee of the library council. her other activities were in connection with the swimming club, camera and psychology clubs, and the mixed chorus.

792 state street

perth · amboy, n. j.

when you think of basketball, you think of ed. one of our star players and varsity man for three years. a regular, all around man. served valuably in science club and on the athletic association committee for three years. his voice has serenaded many a lovely miss during his activities as a glee clubber during frosh and junior years.

eileen a gallagher

300 south 11th street

newark, n. j.

we know eileen as an earnest, keen-humored worker. an active social studies club member for her first two years. her senior year was spent in psychology club, international relations club, basketball, and cinema clubs.

phyllis earle gauldin

37 stockton street

bloomfield, n. j.

"phyl" is our tiny southern belle whose quiet charm was reflected in her work in the social studies club during her first two years. the camera club, ever on the alert, snared her for its own during her senior year.

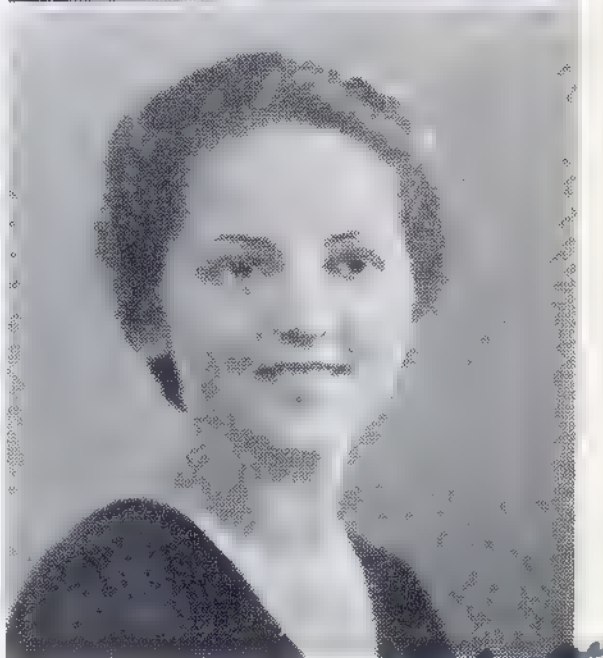

edna may geigel

197 Towland place

woodbridge, n. j.

edna's winning personality has endeared edna to many of her classmates. her work in the music study club, women's glee club and mixed chorus has made her a very valuable member. her third year saw her as corresponding secretary of the science club, treasurer of the music study club, and a member of the international relations club.

philip l. goldberg

544 so. 16th street

newark, n. j.

leadership, an unusually keen mind, athletic ability, and a keen sense of humor mark phil as one of our future topnotchers. phil's activities have been many and varied: library council, tennis team for three years, forum club, treasurer during first year, president 2nd and 3rd years, student council, second year; student council secretary third year; debating club and table tennis teams, second year. a record that we think phil may be justly proud of.

mae diane goldsteen

22 west runyon street

newark, n. j.

quiet and unassuming, mae has won many friends thru her dependability. she was an active member of the psychology club during the last two years. in freshman year, her knack for hard work expended itself in the camera club, norms, library council, international relations associations, and music study club.

eunice m. goodemoot

boulevard

pequannock, n. j.

to most of us, eunice has been a shy and silent maid, but to those of us who were favored with her friendship was revealed a fun-loving, sharpwitted miss. she was an active member of the social studies club, norms, and psychology club.

meet agnes—irish laughter personfied. all who know her fall under her charm. her work in nu lambda kappa has been outstanding. she was assistant editor of the scroll during frosh and junior years, and editor in her senior year. she is an able leader and a sweet girl.

Love and luck to one of the grandest apache dancers I've yet seen — Agnes.

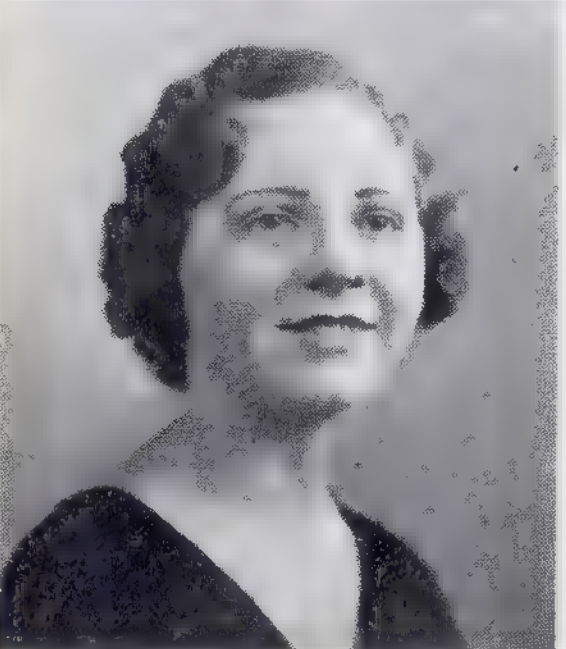

jane harahan

307 north grove street

east orange, n. j.

presenting one of our favorites—we introduce jane. the secret of her popularity lies in her vivaciousness. numerous responsibilities and activities tell the story of her successful stay with us. section leader and social leader—freshman; member of student council, assistant secretary of class—junior; member of executive board as corresponding secretary. basketball, swimming, and deck tennis for the three years.

dorothy henning

139 sunset avenue

newark, n. j.

"dotty" has been one of our old standbys, always ready with a smile. she has indeed made an impression on us with her unostentatious manner. the library council and social studies club are more than willing to vouch for her.

For the fun, good advice, and friendliness of Helen - your dear little sister in earth Ruth

ruth adelaide hill

1391 harding terrace

a pleasant smile, a friendly manner—that's ruth. ruth sang her way into school in her first year via the glee club. the remaining two years were spent as corresponding secretary of the social studies club.

frank and outspoken, and a spade's a spade, whatever your language. for that, she's one girl in a million, with the quality of leadership that makes it pleasant to be led. such, too, was her trend in her many club activities.

margaret g. hughes

48 stanton street

rahway, n. j.

from her activities, one would gather a fun-loving girl—glee club, music study club, and dance study club. but we are assured that there is also a quietly influential and serious side to margaret.

thomas r. jannarone

282 center street

nutley, n. j.

tommy's size only makes his energy a compact one. he has been president of the freshman class; ass't treasurer, then treasurer of the g. o. when not busy with student council meetings, tommy can usually be found practicing basketball. he is a three year varsity man.

doris louise kampf

49 morris avenue

morristown, n. j.

calm, unaffected doris conceals under her quiet charm a deep rooted and rich humor. she is one of the vast army of knitters, but has time for the music study club and the international relations association.

virginia kane

161 carteret street

glen ridge, n. j.

"jimmy", with her ready laugh and droll witticisms, has enlivened many a dull moment. her activities have included membership in the norms, psychology club, and dance study club.

dave kantor

41 division street

perth amboy, n. j.

dave, our local rudy vallee, rarely exhibits his fine voice, but when he does, we all remember. he has the rare gift of dramatic and musical talent. his work in the norms was outstanding, as we feel his work in the world will be.

ida kernerman

newark, n. j.

ida's good nature and pleasant mannerisms have always been welcome in moments of discouragement. as a member of the norms theatre guild in her first year, the social studies club and mixed chorus in her second year, and the psychology club and handcraft club in her third year, ida has been an efficient worker. she has also served on the library council for three years.

cornelia knight

656 gregory avenue

clifton, n. j.

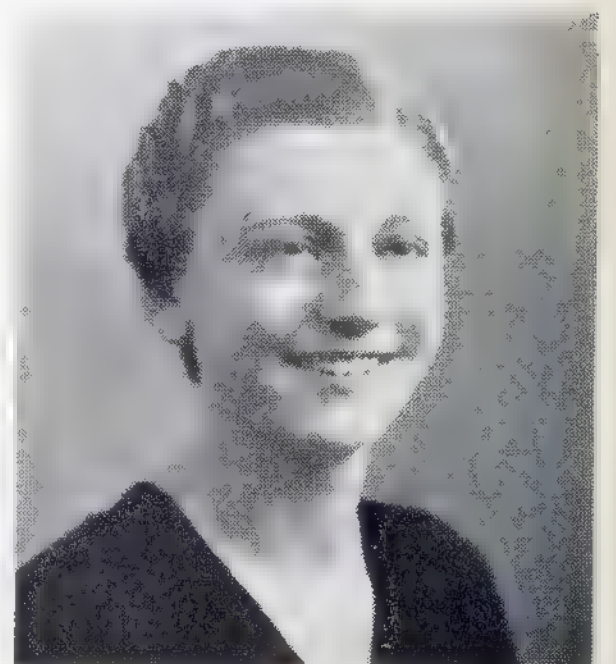

a cameo, set jewel-like in the diadem of the n. s. n. s. sweet neo is excuse enough for our flying off the handle like this. cornelia is a good friend and a good "all around" girl, having made many friends and having participated in the swimming club, needles and stitches club, camera club, and the music study club.

theresa laico

126 telford street

newark, n. j.

terry has been with us as long as it is given to mortals to remain as undergrads here. her friendships were formed in many cases thru her unstinting willingness to help others. at various times she was in the glee club, music study club, and social studies club. she was a second year honor student and a senior section leader.

helen m. la varnway

73 columbia street

newark, n. j.

helen wasn't a universal discovery but those who made her friendship found a pleasing personality. helen expanded in the glee club, psychology club, the mixed chorus, and the social studies club.

milton lemerman

294 orange street

newark, n. j.

milt, whose real humor has disrupted many a calm and dignified class. a varsity letter man, with three years of service on the basketball squad. he has also served as a member of the forum club and the athletic association committee. in his unaffected naturalness of manner, milt should accomplish much distance in his stride.

alexina m. mason

12 elizabeth avenue

arlington, n. j.

business flourished, sales increased with alexina our competent book store executive beaming pleasantly on all customers—no favoritism as to senior, soph, frosh, or junior. we've appreciated her pleasing polite manner. aside from this pressing duty she, as president, steered the affairs of the handcraft club as well as taking part in the mixed chorus, library council, and social studies club. it would be hard to discover a more cheerful, hard worker.

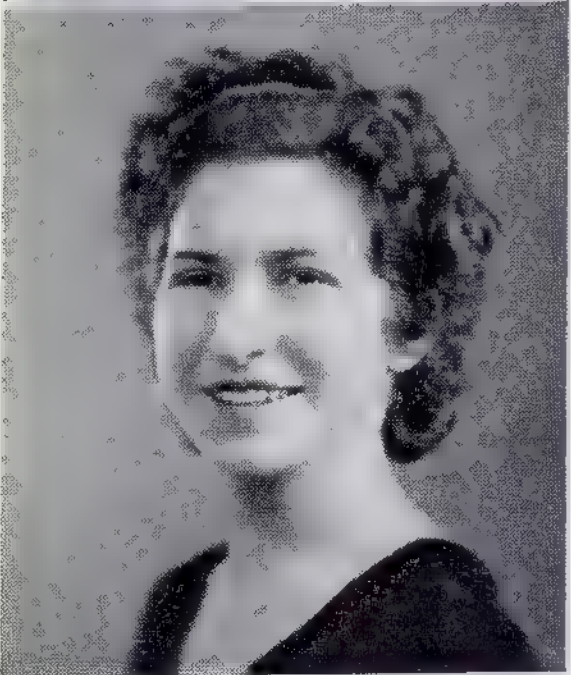

eleanor maria megaro

222 garside street

newark, n. j.

watchfulness for others and a helping hand, including kindness and sympathy are eleanor's secret formula for the host of friends she's made. friends have been the happier for her company. the dance study club has enjoyed her membership and the library council has appreciated and profited by her willing acceptance of responsibility.

118 new york avenue

a cherubic countenance and naive innocence disguise the energetic trend of thought. catherine believes in doing things—behold the reputation she has established for herself in the recreational field. in school activities—the creative urge creeps out in her interest, in her many executive positions on the year book and school paper and nu lambda kappa. a faithful friend, we have all loved her.

virginia middlebrook

22 red road

chatham, n. j.

virginia introduced the shepherd's pipe and ever since some of us are still piping away. an ardent lover of music, she has ably served as president of the glee club, secretary of the music study club, as well as been outstanding in activities as a member of the orchestra and madrigal club. her clever wit and efficiency in all her undertakings has won admiration of both students and teachers.

maud miller

892 hunterdon street

newark, n. j.

with a smile on her lips and a song in her heart (to be poetical, maud has endeared herself to us for those qualities of steadfastness and honesty of purpose which her friends can well attest to. her activities in the glee club and mixed chorus made use of that sweet voice. basketball has also claimed her attention for three years.

*Sincere Good Wishes!

418 long avenue

hillside, n. j.

ann is a most dependable and sincere friend. she accepts her responsibilities capably and is as tactful and humor loving an individual as has entered our august halls. a deep wisdom and practical judgement will make her a good teacher. the social studies club will miss an efficient treasurer. the international relations club an active member.

224
Lil, how proud to have you as a sorority sister.
My sincerest wishes for your success in everything you endeavor.
Yours sincerely,
Selma

selma ruth rabinowitz

94 goodwin avenue

newark, n. j.

"work is work, and play is play"—but selma manages both together somehow and is equally successful in both. a fine person with a charm of manner which is distinctly her own, she has made a score of friends here. selma was active in the library council, camera club, cinema club, swimming club, and psychology club.

anne marie racioppi

16 mt. prospect avenue

newark, n. j.

anne easily secured for herself an affectionate place in our regard. fun-loving, cheerful, sincere, and good natured. a cheer leader as freshman; member of dance study club as junior and member of camera club as senior. happy landings for future success.

Success to a real sport.
Anne

louise charlotte rasmussen

513 grove street

montclair, n. j.

louise and lil have been kindred spirits in fun, work and play. president of the psychology club; vice-president and charter member of kendall society; member of basket-ball club. good humor, vivacious personality, and a jolly companion.

Best of everything, Lil—
May all your troubles
be "little ones".
Louise

lillian sarah reiner

223 david street

south amboy, n. j.

in lillian we have found a conscientious hard worker, ever friendly. as a freshman she belonged to the glee club, as a senior and junior she was a member of the psychology club and needles and stitches club.

elzada m. reynolds

588 jefferson avenue

elizabeth, n. j.

we heard a hearty laugh and knew a joy in living—elzada believes in sharing her pleasure and we are all grateful and the happier for it. a pal to assist you in time of need. her interest predominated in music. the orchestra, mixed chorus, and the madrigal knew a good member. the science club, library council, and international relations will lose an active member.

phyllis anita riker

823 pleasant valley way

west orange, n. j.

for phyllis life is a pleasant valley to traverse with occasional bumps which do not detract from her joy of living. singing through her three years in the women's glee club, mixed chorus, and madrigal she is as blithe as a bird. with a sense of humor—that was frisky as a lamb—she is a most joyous companion.

576 n. 9th street

salvatore rosario

newark, n. j.

a good "skate"—bright, cheerful, and smiling whenever and wherever you see him. salvatore has a friendly disposition and many friends. he was a member of the science club and the men's glee club faithfully and effectively for three years.

bernidine rosenbaum

18 park avenue

caldwell, n. j.

tinkling piano notes will always strike the chord of memory of bernidine. her winning personality is a composite of outstanding musical ability, surplus sense of humor, a rollicking disposition of a joyous nature, and a keen intelligence with zest for living. as chairman of various committees, and vice-president of the senior class she has showed executive ability. as an active member of all the existing musical organizations, she reflects her major interest.

helen sylvia rosenberg

newark, n. j.

tranquil, placid helen calmly goes her way—but if you should ask for help immediately keen interest, sympathy, and a willing readiness to help replace the tranquillity. as a member of the library council for three years and the psychology club for two years she shows a steadfastness in purpose.

mary rae santolla

403 glenwood avenue

east orange, n. j.

happy disposition, sunny smile, friend to all—this combination is mary. it wasn't till recently we became more aware of that twinkle in her eye showing the "impishness" and fun loving instincts. glee club and swimming club as freshman and junior, camera club as junior and senior.

edith claire schmidt

104 parkview drive

bloomfield, n. j.

possessed of a sense of humor and a good sport to the end "edie" could go through life laughing at care. she's the other half of that inseparable and incomparable team of santolla and schmidt. have you ever seen one without the other? the social studies club claimed her freshman year and ever since then she has been an active member of the swimming and camera clubs.

edith selesner

144 clinton place

newark, n. j.

if you're looking for a definition of "likeableness", edith fills the bill. there is nothing affected or insincere in her make-up. that must be the secret. the social studies club has appreciated her worth, for she has acted as treasurer, secretary, and president of that organization. she has also served on the student council and taken an active part in its undertakings.

Dearest I thought true friends are but a thought away. I began my friendship with you and I wish you to be as close as I am to you. Always yours, Mary

The best of everything is you. Love Mary

To Edie, I am thankful that our friendship has just begun. Sincerely Edith R. O. K.

isabel servoss

317 east henry street

linden, n. j.

isabel is conscientious, but oh, that twinkle in her eye bespeaks ready wit. her manners reflect a "straight from the shoulder" attitude. in '34 she participated in the activities of the social studies club, during her second year she was secretary of the needles and stitches club, and a member of the library council. her literary bent was given full sway when, as a senior, she was a member of nu lambda kappa.

sylvia siegel

newark, n. j.

sylvia's sweet face and nature have become well known to us, and our first impressions were not false ones! her friends are many and she has a ready word and a smile for all. she has been one of the leading lights of the library council for three years. the camera club, psychology club, and swimming club have also been graced by her presence.

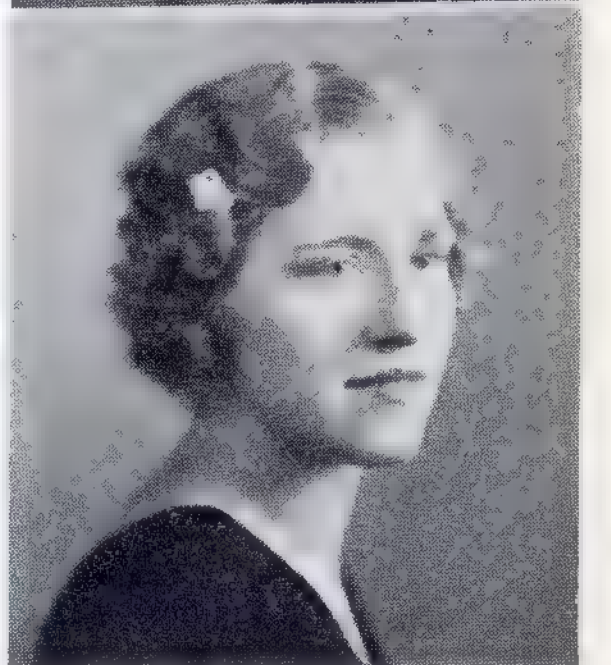

florence simpson

165 mapes avenue

newark, n. j.

dramatics, music and athletics are three fields in which florence is a leader. that's versatility. her contributions to the norms have taken the form of capable performances in plays and executive positions. participation in the activities of the music study club and mixed chorus, of which she was treasurer, certifies to her musical ability, and her position on the basketball team bespeaks an athletic inclination. as for scholarship, florence was elected to the kendall society, which speaks for itself.

beatrice solantz

9 willoughby street

newark, n. j.

her sparkling black eyes and black hair do not prevent her from being a good student in the true sense of the word. beatrice has a decided liking for music and has sung with the glee club for three years. the mixed chorus and music study club were also beatrice's interests. she has been an active member of the library council.

dorothy souter

134 second avenue

newark, n. j.

do you want to find dottie? just follow the strains of that dance music and there she will be, dancing in just the right mode of the moment. quite another type of music interested her, however, in the glee club of which she was assistant treasurer. you'd expect her to be a member of the swimming club, for she typifies the typical college co-ed.

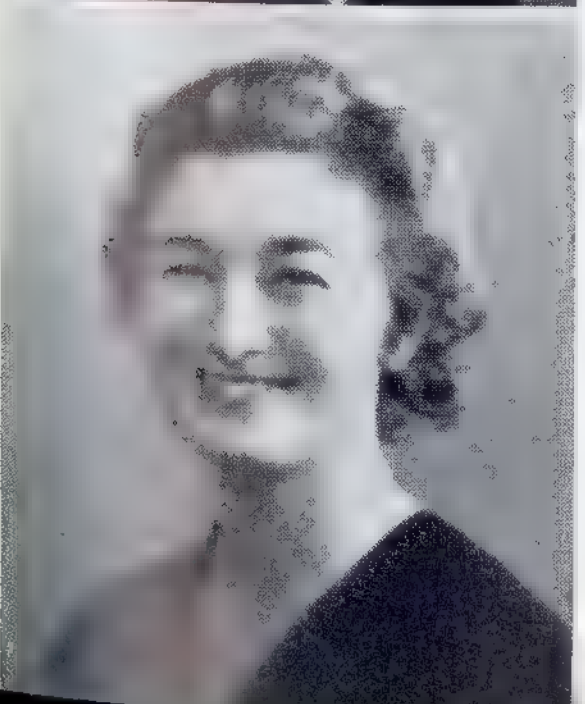

anne marie stacey

50 bartlett street

new brunswick, n. j.

anne is a true leader in everything she undertakes. a fine student, a grand person, and a person who can be trusted with the greatest of responsibilities—that's anne. in her freshman year she was chosen social and section leader. she was president of the basketball club and a member of the student council and the library council. the dance study club and social studies club also interested her. she was secretary of the athletic committee and active as social chairman of the senior class. she was elected to the kendall society.

Look to a small girl - and poet!

Those three years - member of our chats across the river alley! Anne Stacey

lillian stoddart

330 tower street

vaux hall, n. j.

lillian is a quiet girl, but those who know her well can testify as to her character. she's a true friend and when she does things, does them well. rather athletically inclined (in spite of her curly hair). lillian has been a member of the dance study and swimming clubs. she also went out for basketball. in '36, lillian devoted her time to the needles and stitches club.

I hear a lot about Roselle and its inhabitants - But it's all been good. Love, Lillian olga tankowitz

196 ridgewood avenue

newark, n. j.

olga is that tall graceful blonde who looks rather shy. it must be her soft, well-modulated voice in an age of loud noises and raucous tones, which gives that impression. her activities have included membership in the women's glee club and swimming club in '34, the psychology club in '35, and the social studies club in '36.

josephine mary taudul

elizabeth, n. j.

josephine is the girl who writes poetry beautifully, but doesn't let anyone know about it. that modesty and lack of showiness make jo such a fine person. jo was a member of the glee club in her freshman year, and (going literary) of nu lambda kappa for the last two years.

Lillian - You're bound to succeed - It's inevitable - Josephine

elizabeth trautwein

woodbridge, n. j.

elizabeth has made a decided niche for herself in the musical circles of this school. besides being a fine musician, she is a wholesome, straight forward person which is rather a refreshing note in a somewhat blase world. as treasurer of the orchestra (and who could forget that cello?) treasurer of the glee club, member of the mixed chorus, and president of the music study club, elizabeth showed her musical ability. she was also on the student council.

evelyn berryman ward

238 south clinton street

east orange, n. j.

she's red-headed and peppy—a grand combination. evelyn is one of those all-around girls who makes a success of everything she undertakes. so few are born that way! evelyn was vice-president of the norms, an active member of the swimming club and basketball team for three years, and a member of the dance study club. and to top all those athletic achievements, evelyn made the kendall society.

one third of the friend was your alone to normal let's grow fuller, and meaningful. Love, Evelyn

george j. weinik

643 south 18th street

newark, n. j.

red hair and a disarming smile—wouldn't that be enough for any man? but not for george. he's accomplishments are many and varied. he has been a member of the tennis team for three years, a table tennis champion, sports correspondent for local newspapers, a member of the forum club, and nu lambda kappa, and sports editor of the reflector and year book for the last three years.

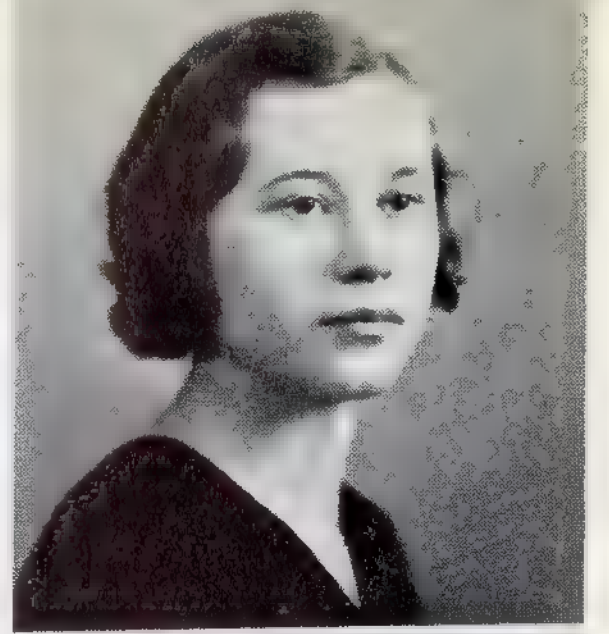

edna l. wiedenmann

86 chelsea ave.

edna is a deep thinker and a true scholar. her words made many a class stop and reflect. she has been a member of the social studies club and the music club in her freshman year, the needles and stitches club in her junior year, and nu lambda kappa this year.

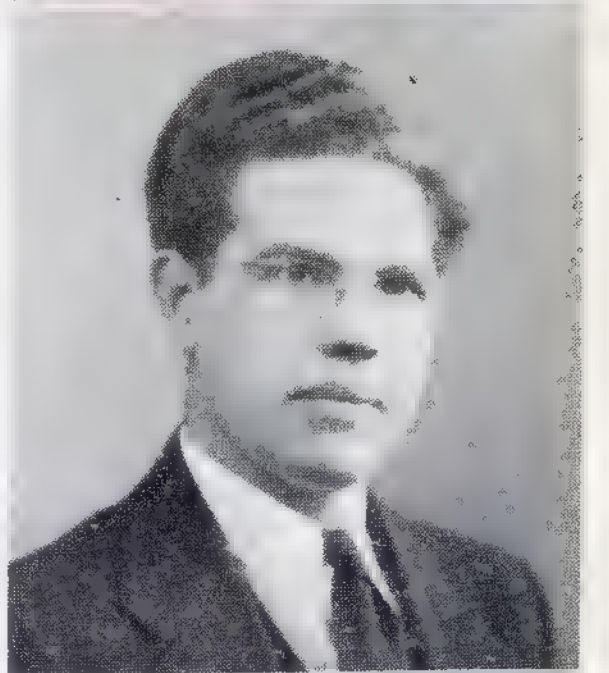

walter wilson

15 melrose terrace

elizabeth, n. j.

leadership, scholarship — walter has reached the pinnacles of both. he always rises to, and perhaps above, any occasion. president of the forum club, vice-president of international relations association, president of the senior class, president of the student council, assistant librarian, assembly committee, member of the men's glee club, library council, madrigal club, debating team—these are some of walter's achievements. sounds imposing, doesn't it?

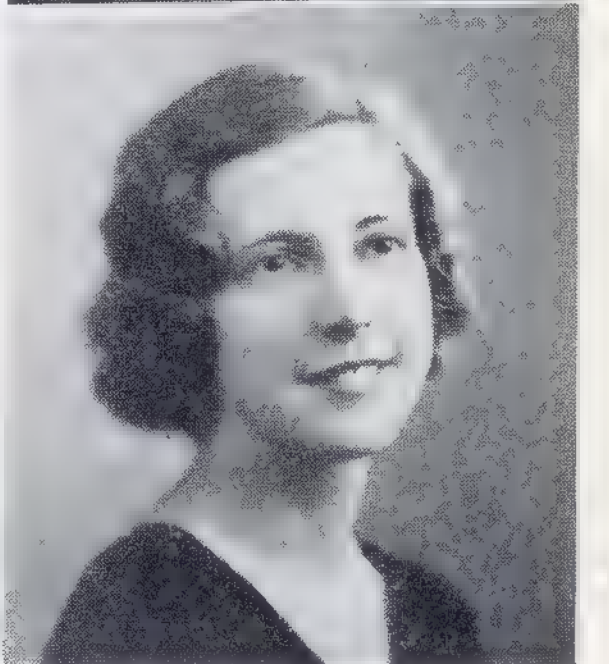

allene caroyl bemler

43 ellery avenue

irvington, n. j.

allene was a member of the social studies club for two years and also a member of the art club in '34. she sang in the mixed chorus while a junior—a kindergartner, of course.

fidelia bettes

522 valley road

montclair, n. j.

we find "fie" in her freshman year a member of the social studies club. in her junior year she was a member of the psychology club. in her senior year we find fie "going domestic" and joining the needles and stitches where her talent has been displayed.

muriel louise bloemecke

east orange, n. j.

muriel has been an addition to the casts of several plays presented by the norms theatre guild, as well as serving as recording secretary and a member of the social committee of this same organization. when not acting, muriel could probably be found at the desk in the library, for she was an ardent worker on the library council.

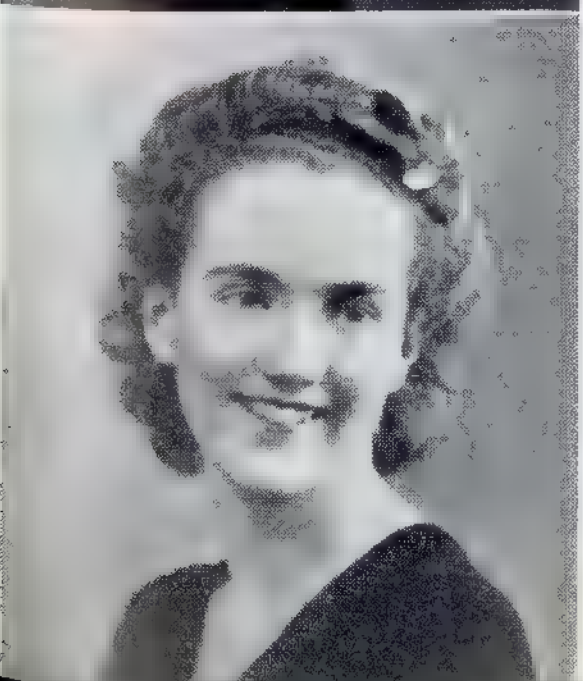

monica flynn

363 melrose place

south orange, n. j.

one of our busiest kindergarteners, monica proved her capability as an officer of the freshman and junior class and a member of the executive board. here because she did such a fine job on the social committee, she was re-elected each year and each year she helped to put over bigger and better social activities. she also held treasure-ship of the library council and showed talent in the swimming and dancing clubs. she may be small—but she certainly can do things in a big way!

joyce marilynn frerichs

82 concord avenue

glen rock, n. j.

altho' "our" joyce entered in '35 from glassboro, one can well see she has made a place for herself here. with a lovely voice she helped the singing clubs, with deft fingers she presided over the needles and stitches, her senior year. and so too, a member of the student council, we may term her our most versatile kindergartener.

muriel alberta greatorex

364 highland avenue

arlington, n. j.

one cannot help but connect Muriel's name with the Norms Theatre Guild for she was active in the organization for two years as acting vice-president, and chairman of the social committee. She was also a member of the Glee Club in 1934. "Muriel" was a kindergartener who meant a great deal to all of us.

Happy Landings
Muriel.

eleanor madeline ohlsen

124 union avenue

maplewood, n. j.

in her freshman year eleanor was a member of the women's glee club. in her junior and senior years we find eleanor a member of nu lambda kappa, but not only a member—she was assistant treasurer of this club. a very capable kindergarten!

evelyn elizabeth pott

84 greenwood avenue

east orange, n. j.

evelyn entered newark normal in 1935, as a transfer student from montclair. she took hold of the reins right away, by proving an addition to the psychology club and by the way, holding the junior presidency in her second year. she also proved to be one of the best side centers the basketball club has ever seen, one of the best student speakers the international relations club has introduced, a music study club member, and one of the most enthusiastic, peppy, liked, of all the kindergarteners.

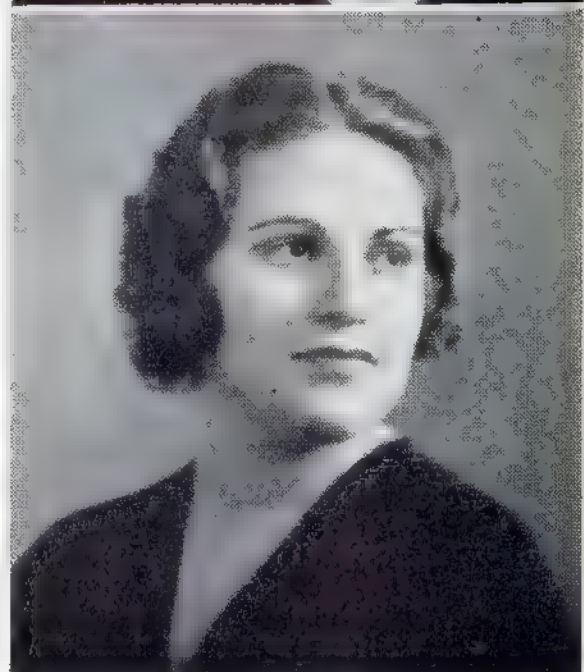

mildred schwartz

44 high street

perth amboy, n. i.

the needles and stitches club boasted mildred as a faithful knitter in '36 and the camera club boasted her as a faithful knitter in '35. mildred attended the harriett m. mills school before she came with us in 1935.

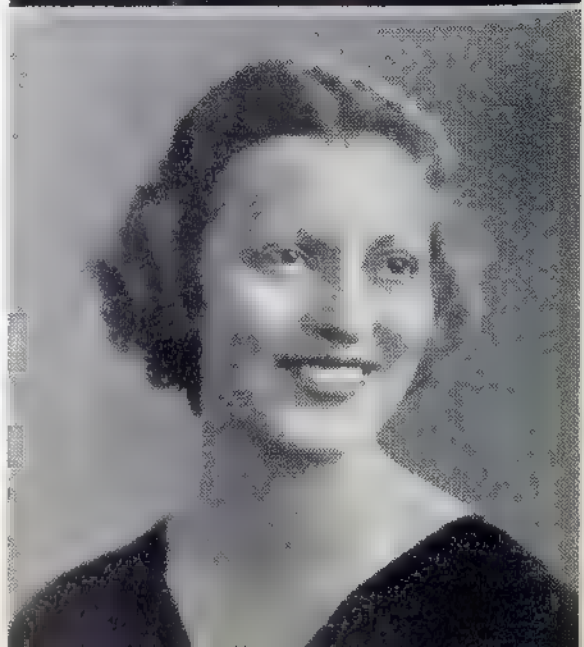

florence elizabeth steen

81 kirk street

west orange, n. j.

the norms theatre guild found florence among its members for two years, and in '36 she joined the psychology club. florence was in the cast of "spanish moon"; a member of the library council, and found diversion in the swimming club.

by the way, florence is one, who may be termed "one of the best dressed girls."

speaking of dancing, rose not only held the vice-presidency of the dance study club for two consecutive years but served as instructor of the club during her junior and senior year. she was solo dancer at the alumni reunion 1935, and at the montclair symposium. dancing ones way thru life sounds fascinating.

juliet frances stone

90 washington street

ruth blossom terrill

31 south oraton parkway

east orange, n. j.

dancing and singing her way along, we find ruth a member of the glee club in '34. later, she diversified her talents by knitting, in the needles and stitches club. ruth was also corresponding secretary of the kendall society in '36—a real leader and truly capable.

virginia veronica vasilow

247 broadway

newark, n. j.

virginia, better known as ginny, caused her name to be prominent in the science club, as club secretary, and with library council where she served as chairman of the entertainment committee. she was active also in the cinema club, the swimming club, and the basketball club.

dorothy azzoli

237 littleton avenue

newark, n. j.

dotty's keen sense of humor has made her invaluable to her friends. in a word, she is a grand personality. the social studies club and library council have considered her a prized asset.

there is lurking imp of mischief ever ready to burst forth at the slightest provocation in lillian. a hearty laugh and a grand sense of humor are the basis of her pleasant disposition. to have known lillian is to have known a sincere true friend—and who has not known her radiant personality? her activities included glee, social studies, and psychology clubs. she served as section leader and club, and the psychology club.

We have had lots of fun together. Lillian. Many more. May 13 part.

helen raynor

east orange, n. j.

helen spent her first club year in the women's glee club, her junior year in the dance study club, and her senior year as a worker in the needles and stitches club. she was also in the cast of spanish moon, presented in '34. not "just another student" but one of our most popular kindergarteners.

gertrude rose davis

belleville, n. j.

gertrude with her ability to imitate and otherwise entertain has helped to make us happy for the past four years. many are the times that we would shriek with laughter as she did her impersonations. she also had her serious moments in which she correlated music, drama, and art, and she managed to be equally successful in all three. the glee club claimed her attention the first year, and in her, the dramatic club found an ardent supporter the second and third year. gert also found time for the swimming club. an all 'round sport is gert!

marion fairley mc ewan

51 grove avenue

verona, n. j.

marion is one of the main stays of the original fine arts class. all of her time is devoted to the art club, art club programs, and the art committees. it was during the third year that she was found to be so indispensable that the art club decided none other than marion should or could be president of the art club. she served so well and so faithfully in this capacity that her term was lengthened from one to two years. marion has all the necessary (and then some) qualities for success and the indications are that she will be happy in her chosen profession.

clarence fraser wilson

1086 magnolia avenue

a man of value, high integrity, and an idealist is our conception of larry. he will go far, and accomplish much. his activities included the camera club, glee club, mixed chorus, forum club, and library council. his official duties included the presidency of international relations club in his second year, section leader 3, and class treasurer of senior class.

206 hamilton street

harrison, n. j.

musical fingers on white ivories—ah! hear that rhythm. tony loves to play, and besides playing he also composes. norms theatre guild, men's glee club, and the international relations club were his specialities. outside of school, tony does some orchestra playing, so we won't be surprised to hear of future fame.

mildred lowitz

19 huntington terrace

newark, n. j.

mildred is a social person, and likes conversations to be both witty and wise. she doesn't allow studying to interfere with her social life, but she can always supply answers to puzzling questions. then, mildred can also present puzzling questions for you to answer. the psychology club, dancing club, music study club, library council, and international relations club attracted her interest.

b. ford sheppard

new jersey

an excellent example of an art student is "shep", and what tremendous strides he has taken since he came to us from elmer. he tried for and made the tennis team. so successful was he that he was made captain. the men's show and the men's glee club were the high spots in his second year. he was also one of the contributors to the cafeteria murals. there is no limit to his interests. conscientiousness carries him forward, and if perserverance is the key to success we know that "shep" will succeed.

the better you know janet, the better you'll like her—at least so we've found. janet has engaged in various club activities including glee club and music study club as freshman and junior, and needles and stitches in senior year.

elizabeth budarf

622 court street

elizabeth, n. j.

elizabeth is an able student, and has a great love for scientific knowledge. her allegiance to the science club has given her several opportunities for leadership; for she has held the offices of corresponding secretary 2, and secretary-treasurer 3. in her third year she held the position of section treasurer. the library council was another organization for which elizabeth worked hard.

clarissa millicent todd

joye, as she is familiarly known, has always been ready to render invaluable aid with a charming smile. the adage about the tempermental artist does not apply to joye for she is most sensible and practical. during her first year here she worked with the dramatic club. her second and third years here were divided between the art department and the needles and stitches club. she has belonged to innumerable art committees and it is always a pleasure to work with her. joye has all the qualities for success and that is what we are wishing for her.

graduation

we've scaled the mount
whose rugged cliff's with thorny branches grow.
we've climbed its rocks, its crooked paths,
its dank and moss beds know.
and now upon its grassy plain
we pause, and gaze afar,
and trembling behold the sky
aglow with silvery stars.
oh, shall we pause where evening tide spreads floating misty dew.
to dampen trees and blossoms bright with dark and somber hues?
oh! tremble not for misty stars
in skies of gloomy gray;
but hide behind their twinkling gleams
a bright and glorious day.

the student council of new jersey state teachers' college at newark is the representative body elected by the clubs and classes to perform the legislative duties of the student organization.

this year the activities of the council centered around a reorganization of the constitution of the student organization. a new financial policy is needed and the council is endeavoring to supply this need.

a high spot in the council's calendar is the annual eastern states teachers' conference which is held at the hotel commodore in new york. all members of the council are sent to this conference to represent our school. another social activity of the council is the annual tea which is given by dr. and mrs. townsend at their home.

the council would appreciate any suggestions from the student body as it is building toward a greater cooperation between the school at large and the law making machinery of the institution.

'twas not so long ago, when we, the class of 1937, were consoling ourselves with these immortal lines: "there will come a day" well, that day has come! we're juniors!

with the kind help and guidance of our faculty advisor, mr. page, we have been able to have two successful social affairs which shall live on forever in our memories; a junior dance and a junior prom. the junior dance was held in the gymnasium of the school on december 13, 1935. juniors and friends were present, and members of the faculty honored us by graciously attending.

the prom, held on march 13, at the women's club of upper montclair, was one equalled by none in brilliance.

to whom then are we grateful for our huge success? certainly to the faculty, the faculty advisor, mr. page, the administration, the committee, headed by mr. martorana and the class officers:

president_____	ulric fiore
vice president_____	saul marion
recording secretary_____	ida malanga
corresponding secretary_____	sylvia perlman
treasurer_____	frank birkner

it has always been the great pleasure of the sophomore class to welcome the freshman to our school. our welcome to the class of 1939 was in the form of a tea dance held in the school gymnasium. we found the freshman to be a most congenial group.

each year the classes of the school look forward with a great deal of anticipation to the day when dr. and mrs. townsend entertain them at tea. the sophomore class was invited on sunday, november seventeenth. the class wishes to express their appreciation to dr. and mrs. townsend for their gracious hospitality which made this event one to be long remembered.

much of the success of these affairs has been due to the splendid guidance given to us by our faculty advisor, mrs. lenore vaughn-eames.

the class is under the able leadership of the following officers:

president_____	thodore swenson
vice president_____	doris berman
secretary_____	catherine galvin
treasurer_____	william baldwin

freshman

last september there entered the portals of our school the first freshman class under our new college status. they soon orientated themselves to our college and absorbed the spirit of newark state teachers' college, for in almost every extra-curricula activity they played important parts.

the class organized quickly and elected as their officers: john cloves, president; dorothy hollis, vice-president; gloria eastman, corresponding secretary; ruth rinker, recording secretary, irvin rubin, treasurer; and robert scott, student council representative.

the freshman class has held many social functions throughout the year. the first tea was held on september 10, 1935 in the tudor room. the purpose of this gathering was to acquaint the students with the freshman counselors and the faculty.

an afternoon party was held on september 26, 1935 in the gymnasium.

on october 4, 1935, the sophomore class entertained the freshman at a tea dance in the gym. the music of the orchestra and the refreshments were enjoyed by everyone. it is the least to say that this was one of the most enjoyed affairs of the term.

dr. and mrs. townsend entertained the entire class at a tea at their home on october 20, 1935. miss judd wilson, faculty advisor of the class, poured.

the gym was decorated as a wintry scene which was most appropriate for the occasion.

a bright future stands ahead for this class and we are expecting much from them.

psychology club

president_____louisa rasmussen vice president_____lena nittoli secretary_____evelyn ellsworth treasurer_____lillian payton faculty advisor_____miss marcia baldwin

the psychology club has delved into many interesting fields in its study this year. during the first term the problem of individual differences was the major interest. the club members tried actual experiments, testing their own aptitudes and talents through numerous tests and devices. through this program many members discovered in what direction their aptitudes and talents lay.

the members are now studying in the field of abnormal psychology, considering it of value to future teachers who will be able to control stresses and strains that are inimicable barriers to the development of a wholesome and integrated personality. in connection with this work, a trip to greystone was planned so that the members might come in contact with the actual life situation and gain a better insight into preventive work.

the club, however, did not neglect other aspects of society. the members grew in deepened understanding of the problems of youth when they viewed the play "the children's hour". the play was discussed later considering its psychological points. later a "stunt party" was held.

the kendall society

grand counselor_____dr. m. ernest townsend president_____paul meister vice president_____louisa rasmussen recording secretary_____doris may corresponding secretary_____ruth terrill

the kendall society is the honorary educational fraternity of the new jersey state normal school. this was organized by faculty members of kappa delta pi, the national honorary educational fraternity, for the purpose of upholding and advancing the highest ideals of professional scholarship and service.

on january 27, 1936, the following faculty and students met for organization: guy v. bruce, martha downs, john french, earl page, jane plenty, lara rogers, m. ernest townsend, harriet wetzel, frank birkner, evelyn ellsworth, doris may, paul meister, albert paskow, louisa rasmussen, bernidine rosenbaum, florence simpson, anne stacey, ruth terrill, evelyn ward, and walter wilson.

the symbol and emblem of the society is represented by a silver key displayed upon the face of which is the letter k, this being the initial letter of the name of the man whom this society delights to honor. calvin kendall was the first commissioner of education of the state of new jersey. he exemplified the pledges of the society; truth, loyalty, service.

vice president_____dorothy edmunds
secretary_____gertrude nachbar corresponding secretary_____ruth hill treasurer_____anne puchy faculty advisor_____miss marjorie flaacke miss maude barber

our social studies activity club, following its procedure of previous years, selected for its year's study, a project which would in all likelihood, be encountered in a classroom. the state of new jersey proved a veritable storehouse of interesting historical, geographical, industrial, educational, recreational, and agricultural facts.

the industrial, educational, historical, and recreational aspects of new jersey were shown in the club's annual exhibit. the methods by which the exhibits was assembled and formulated were recorded on index cards. the cards are filed and kept as a service to the college.

the social studies activity club looks forward every year to at least one party. this year a spring tea was held in the tudor room.

needles and stitches club

president-----joyce frerichs vice president-----dorothy irwin secretary-treasurer-----phyllis manno asst. secretary-treasurer-----beatrice greenblat faculty advisor-----miss alice rice should you happen to pass by the reading room some friday morning during club hour, you might see groups of industrious young women knitting, crocheting, tatting, sewing, and as ever, chatting amiably about the room.

the needles and stitches club offers the opportunity for learning as well as the time for accomplishing the needle work which gives its members so much pleasure.

perhaps you didn't know that some of the club members made clothing and toys for children which they distributed during the christmas season and that some helped sew the curtains in the reading room along with other domestic trifles about our school.

for a club in its third year of organization, the needles and stitches club has grown with steady regularity and is unquestionably on the rating of one of the most popular clubs in the college.

marionette guild

master craftsman_____anita megurowsky scribe_____marion kobitz keeper of funds_____dorothy seligman faculty advisor_____miss alice mihleis

the marionette guild has kept in close contact with others of the state guild due to the unlimited abilities of miss mihleis who has been very closely affiliated with the new jersey public school marionette guild. a premiere showing of the filming of the prize marionette production by the thomas jefferson school of passaic was held at the home of the advisor in december, 1935.

we are now working out the play, "jack and the beanstalk" which we hope to finish this term. each member is making his own puppet with the aid of leroy bohnen. margaret longus has been the purchaser of all necessary materials.

women's glee club

president_____virginia middlebrook
 vice president_____gertrude fischer recording secretary_____phyllis riker corresponding secretary_____henrietta dunbach treasurer_____elizabeth trautwein assistant treasurer_____janet carr faculty advisor_____miss frances dunning
 accompanist_____miss laura e. rogers

this year the women's glee club under the direction of miss dunning with the able assistance of miss rogers, has centered its activities around many delightful programs for the enjoyment of its friends.

the first of these was the thanksgiving day program. the christmas program, so much a part of us, was received with much delight and praise.

the great aim of the club, to broaden its activities, reached its height when the club collaborated with the other musical organizations to give a spring concert. on this occasion the women's glee club rendered the cantata, "the lady of shalott".

international relations club

president_____charles fisher vice president_____perle greenspan secretary_____rita marsa treasurer_____ann lopresti faculty advisor_____miss luella seager

the philosophy of the international relations club is a philosophy of enlightenment. this organization aims to enlighten its members on international affairs, government, and politics.

the purpose of this organization is not to come to conclusions, but to challenge, provoke thought, and arouse discussion, such as would not ordinarily come up in a regular class period, and to develop the student's powers of expression and leadership. this is brought about through the placement of responsibility upon different members to initiate and conduct a discussion. after each speaker there follows a period of open discussion.

the international relations club sends delegates and representatives to conferences and meetings and is a member of the foreign policy association.

through social affairs, teas, dances, and picnics, the members socialize and find a wholesome means of recreation.

with the aid and guidance of our able sponsor and founder, miss luella seager, it is our desire to make this club a strong and permanent organization able to exert a far reaching influence in student affairs.

the library council

president_____george stryker
 vice president_____theodore swenson secretary_____ethel pompadur treasurer_____albert rothbard faculty advisor_____miss nancy thompson

the activities of the library council for the last year have been many and varied. the primary purpose of the library council is to render service to our college. the various services offered by the council are: a lending library, available to students and alumni, a reserving system, and an extensive clipping service on many subjects. an extensive educational pamphlet collection, an educational magazine file, a magazine indexing department and a book-binding and mending department are some of the other many sided departments of the library. this year the council has published "forecasts" which is a compilation of interesting events in the fields of the dance, drama, books, lectures, music, and exhibits.

the library council has always been one of the outstanding organizations in its social functions. this year "homecoming day" for the alumni was a huge success due to the excellent cooperation and arrangements of belle friedman, rita marsa, ethel pompadur, and perry zimmerman.

may the succeeding years bring greater service!

mixed chorus and madrigal club president_____albert paskow vice president_____bernidine rosenbaum secretary_____charles fisher treasurer_____florene simpson

the mixed chorus under the leadership of miss frances dunning has had a very interesting and delightful year. at the annual thanksgiving day program the chorus sang mendelssohns ever popular "oh, praise the lord". the traditional christmas festival at the state teachers college would not be complete unless the mixed chorus sang carols in the halls. for "patrons night" and for "home coming day of the alumni" the chorus sang verdi's "o heavenly aida" from the opera, "aida" and an english chanty, "rio grande". to complete this year of delightful activity the mixed chorus sang "land of our hearts", a well known poem by john hall ingham, the music to which was supplied by george whitefield chadwick, at the annual concert of all the musical organizations.

the madrigal club is composed of a small number of selected student members who function as an a-capella chorus under the direction of miss frances s. dunning with able assistance of miss laura e. rogers.

through its activities the madrigal club has gained recognition and praise for itself and its school.

this year particularly, the madrigal club has had an interesting and varied program. they accepted invitations to sing at the kiwanis club and the schoolmen's club and their programs were received with great praise. the other programs in which the group participated were at the personnel conference and at the annual spring concert given by the newark state normal school.

the forum club

president.....philip l. goldberg

vice president.....william baldwin

secretary.....helen hoffman

treasurer.....milton lemerman

the forum club functions as an organization to provide a place where students can freely discuss any phase of activity—social, political, or cultural—concerned with school or outside life. it tries to bring about a fuller life by impressing upon the student body the importance of youth in our civilization and by urging them to exercise to the fullest degree their influence in their school and community.

its assembly program included mayor eilenstein of newark, discussions with mr. herman blank, ex-assemblyman in new jersey, and mr. walters, organizer for the town-send plan clubs.

the club is also interested in drama and an interpretation of society today, and has attended several plays—namely, "winterset" and "mulatto". discussions of the problems presented by these plays followed.

during the next year we hope to continue and if possible increase the scope of our activities by increasing the number of outside speakers to give the students a closer contact with the outside community.

music study and orchestra

president_____elizabeth trautwein
vice president_____gertrude fischer
secretary_____virginia middlebrook treasurer_____edna geigel
faculty advisor_____miss laura e. rogers

the music study club aims to give its members an opportunity for self-expression through music. it strives to increase a feeling of appreciation for music through a serious yet joyous study .

the club gave an assembly program in the form of instrumental and vocal numbers which displayed some of the excellent talents of its members.

the club procured two y. m. h. a. subscriptions entitling them to twelve concerts for the better development of music appreciation.

we owe much to miss rogers, our advisor, for her never failing aid and guidance with all of our programs.

president_____jane slater
vice president_____william baldwin
secretary_____claire bachman treasurer_____elzada reynolds
faculty advisor_____miss laura e. rogers

the orchestra, the string ensemble, and the string trio have done much to contribute to the cultural and aesthetic life of the school. they have participated in many major events of the school year such as playing for the film "the human adventure", supplying orchestral accompaniment for the christmas program, and entertaining at faculty luncheons and other social affairs of the year. they have also played for the kiwanis club and participated actively in the spring concert. a great deal of the success of the orchestra may be attributed to the untiring efforts of miss laura e. rogers, our advisor.

the cinema club

president_____miriam sermayan vice president_____violet klein recording-secretary_____jeanne mark corresponding secretary_____lillian grushkin treasurer_____helen palmieri faculty advisor_____miss jeanette livingston

the purposes of this club are to gain a further knowledge of motion picture art; to bring the value of standards to the attention of all; and to learn how to introduce photoplay appreciation into the educational field.

the activities of this organization have been varied and encompassing in scope. in the past we have procured speakers in the field of motion picture arts, studied the projection room and its equipment, held forum meetings at which time special reports were given followed by general discussion, attended performances at several warner brothers theatres gratis.

the inception of a new enterprise has been fostered by the club with much fervor—the writing of scenario. this scenario will be filmed during the ensuing term. dr. townsend has heartily endorsed our project and has offered a prize to the individual writing the scenario selected for filming.

swimming club

the students who are interested in swimming and winter sports have a splendid time enjoying both in the activities of the swimming club. co-ed classes are held every thursday in the r. c. a. pool in harrison under the tutelage of willard zwiedinger.

the features of the spring semester swims was a program of swimming fundamentals. these were composed of demonstrations and practice in the following: confidence and adjustment to the water; breathing and bouyancy; initial safety and control of the body positions; initial diving; the leg kick; the arm movements; and coordination. elementary and advanced objective tests were offered to those who wanted to take inventory of their aquatic prowess. some took the tests, others swallowed water. just the same this appears to be a rite peculiar to many members of the club.

a committee of degree seniors planned and conducted an aquatic play-day as conclusion to an enjoyable activity program.

woodward science club

 vice president_____ray pollino secreary_____virginia v. vasiliow treasurer_____edward gadek faculty advisors_____mrs. elsa decker _____mr. guy bruce

another successful year for the science club! each year we are adding a number of interested members, who, although their own knowledge of science may be limited, gain much from watching demonstrations of the more scientifically minded. who knows, we may discover a second edison or marconi if we turn these experimentors loose with our new equipment for very long.

we don't always experiment with salts and acids, sometimes we are very social, then we try cake and ice cream and tea. (incidentally, we have made our own ice cream).

our club made a wider acquaintance of interested spectators when we produced one of our novel assembly programs for the teacher training conference last december.

camera club

president_____theodore swenson
 1st vice president_____william cohn 2nd vice president_____grace almond secretary_____florence gundaker treasurer_____ethel groh faculty advisor_____mr. fred richmond

look at the birdie! stand still please!, and other phrases have been heard this past year in the stately halls of our alma mater.

the meetings of the club are held every week in room 22 but the members are always taking pictures, so beware! you may be the next victim. have you seen some of these pictures on our bulletin board?

under the able direction of mr. richmond plus the help of bill cohn and ted swenson, the club members have made their own pin hole cameras. pictures have been taken with these cameras with favorable results.

during the year, several club members have given demonstrations on different phases of photography such as printing, developing, using motion picture machine, and using projection machine.

norms theatre guild

president_____ben phillips

vice president_____evelyn herbert recording secretary_____muriel bloemecke

corresponding secretary_____lillian kasperevek

treasurer_____howard junker

the norms theatre guild aims to give its members an opportunity for self-expression through the drama, an acquaintance with the worthwhile productions of the past and current seasons and a keener appreciation of the dramatic technique through visits to nearby theatres and colleges.

two plays were given this year, "exhibit a", and "the trysting place". the norms exhibits great dramatic interest because it aims to have plays in process of production at all times.

on march 29, the norms visited the paper mill play house at short hills under the direction of mr. frank carrington. a play was presented and tea was served.

this year the norms sponsored a gala dramatic day at our college. dramatic clubs from the various teachers' colleges of the state attended tihs affair. the program consisted of dramatic work from the various colleges represented, as inspiring message by a prominent dramatic speaker, and informal discussions on dramatic work done at the various colleges of the state.

honor pins were awarded to the outstanding members of the club.

nu lambda kappa

president_____betty macnaughton vice president_____edythe wessel secretary_____perry zimmerman treasurer_____john markowitz
 assistant treasurer_____eleanor ohlsen faculty advisor_____mrs. lenore vaughn-eames

this year nu lambda kappa aimed to bring before its members notice of activities in literary field and to foster and encourage creative talent within the club.

during the first semester, a study was made of the legend "king arthur and the cakes" which the club prepared to film. an extensive study was begun on topics related to the filming of the story.

we requested permission from dr. townsend to place a plaque commemorating the remains of a building once the home of general philip kearny of civil war fame. the wall on the side of the school building visible from broadway is an original part of the building.

a short story contest was sponsored by the club in connection with the "scroll", a magazine published by the club containing work of club members and students at large. the scroll staff is:

the cheer leading squad

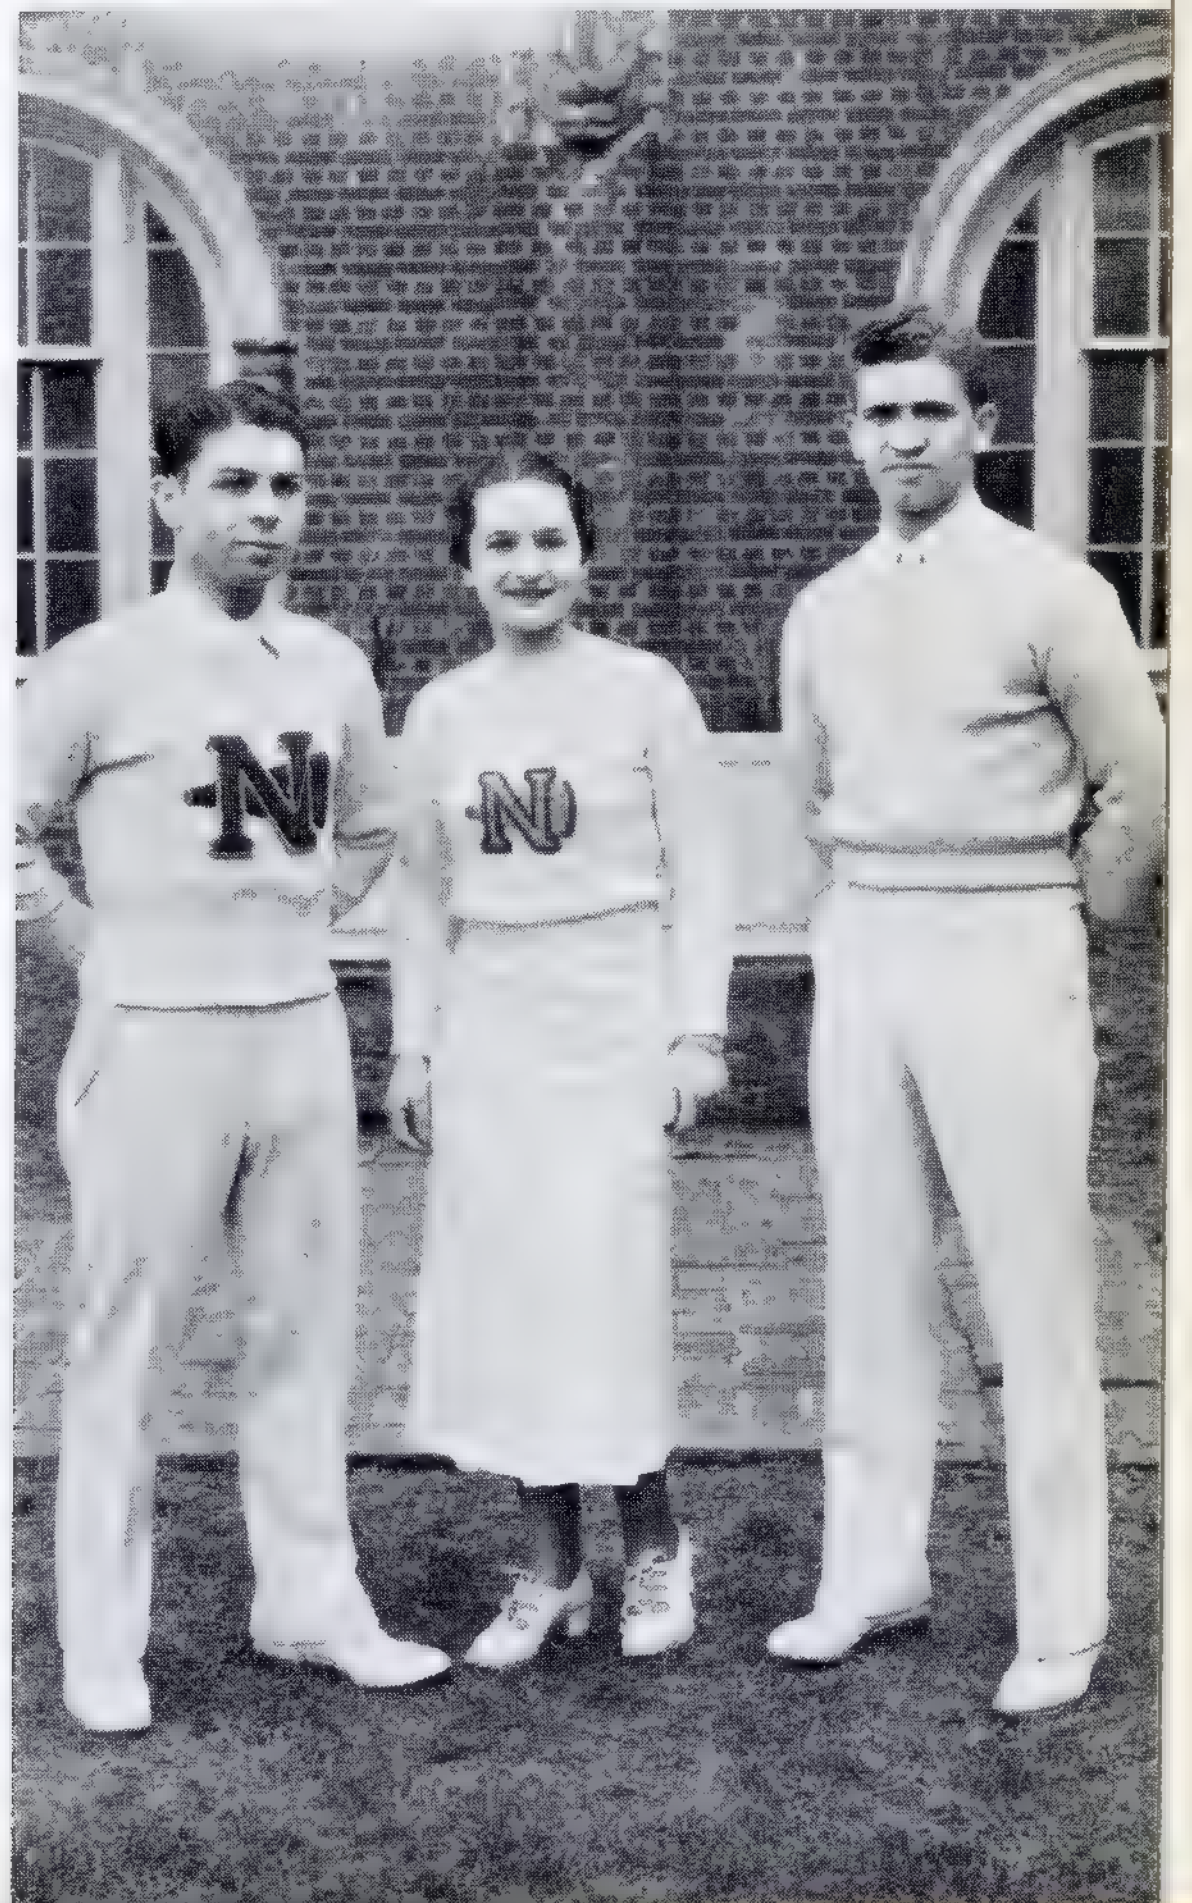

here they are folks, right before your eyes! who? why, none other than the sparkling, vivacious, scintillating members of the 1936 cheerleading squad!

the entire squad consisted of: first, veteran, dynamic al rothbard, the dean of our cheerleaders; second sylvia adelman, plainfield's gift to the normal school; third, annette savino, the lyndhurst flash; fourth, saul marion the pride of the junior class; fifth 102 pound evelyn cooperman; and last but not least paul (red) millikin, the gyrating freshman.

our school may well be proud of our splendid rah! rah! team and we may have a difficult time replacing forceful al, who graduates this term after maintaining his place on the team for four years.

brother millikin was the life of the party at almost every session and the newcomer showed us a variety of tricks and cheers. if you haven't seen him in action, by all means do so next year: he's a show all by himself.

the remaining members of the team saul marion, and the misses adelman, savino, and cooperman gave their best and deserve credit for doing their tasks creditably.

dance study club

president_____eleanor ballar vice president_____rose stein treasurer_____catherine gleason
faculty advisor_____mrs. anita d'angola

the dance study club is one of activity, in which all members take active part. it is a club in which relaxation, free self-expression and enjoyment are emphasized.

it has been kept active because of its willingness to cooperate with other clubs and the school in any way to aid them in their programs. this year the club had an active part in patrons night. hill-billy dances and the virginia reel were taught to our parents, who enjoyed these dances immensely.

the dance study's club hour is devoted to setting up exercises, forms of relaxation and the learning of folk dances such as the gypsy and polish dances which are so very fascinating.

success and happiness to our "dancing ladies"!

tennis

the psuedonym of the athletic forces of the newark state teachers' college silver streaks may be rightly applied to the tennis team this year if preliminary try-outs turn out as expected.

last year our court team went through a schedule of ten matches and emerged on top in only three of them. however, the experience gained by our boys has done them a world of good and the netsters have hopes of compiling the best record in the history of the school.

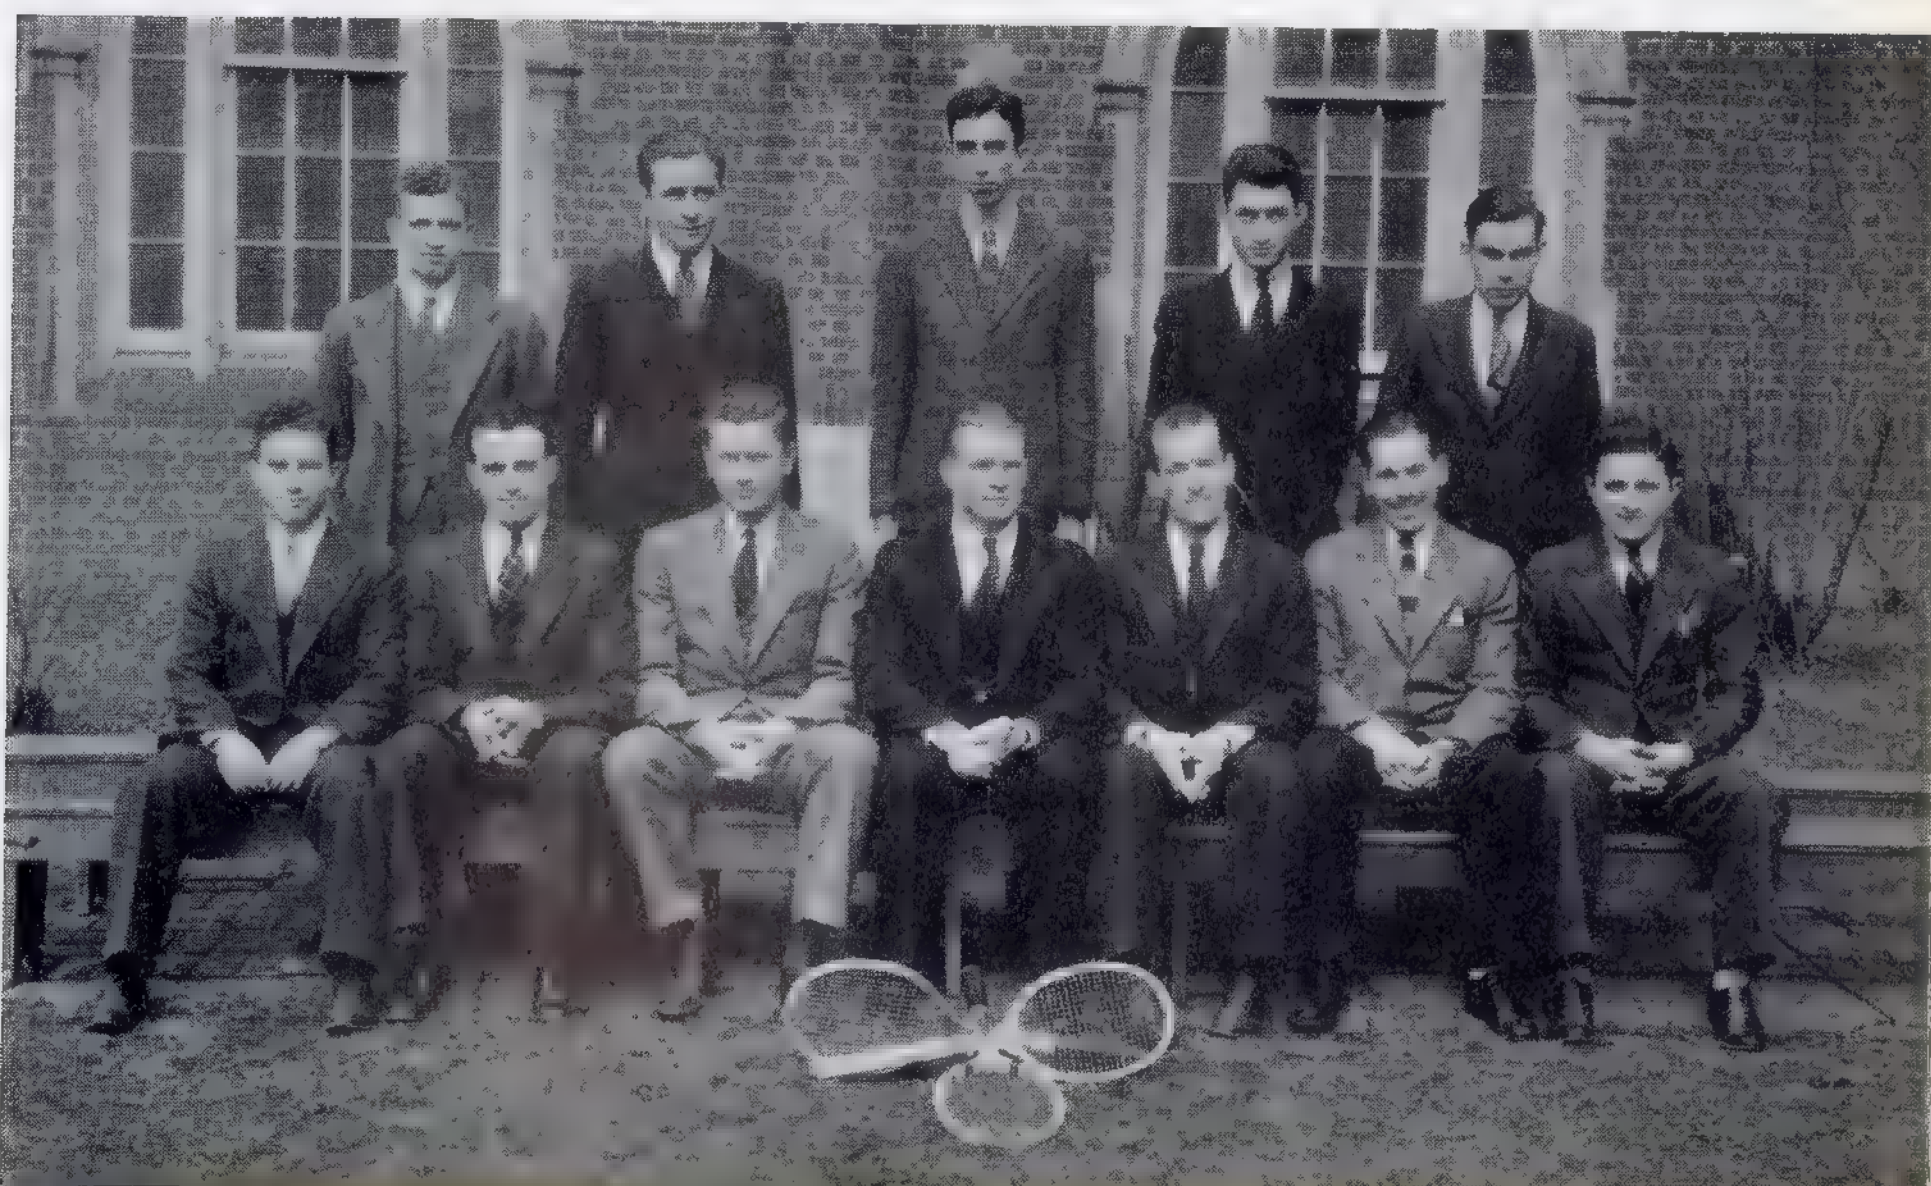

this year's squad will be picked from among george weinik and philip goldberg, who shared the first position, ford sheppard, howard junker, saul marion, nick fiore, leonard johnson, harvey browne, carmine rando, bud noble, charles fisher, wally cloves, joseph pikus, and al paskow.

among the missing veterans are henry bookstaber, de loin rice, joseph domarecki, and irving liebowitz. next season the missing will include weinik, goldberg, junker, sheppard, and fisher, leaving only a bare handful for the 1937 season.

manager saul marion has scheduled fifteen matches this year against the most formidable teams in the east. games are listed with the montclair state teachers' college, drew university, east stroudsburg state teachers' college, rutger's college of pharmacy, newark college of engineering, jersey city state normal school, moravian college, john marshall college, rider college, and panzer college.

early in the season the school entered george weinik and philip goldberg in the first annual state indoor tennis championships at Orange. this was the first time in tennis history that any players were officially entered in championship events under the normal school colors.

williard e. zweidinger is coach of the team with saul marion, manager, and henry holz, assistant manager.

women's basketball club

president_____ann stacey

vice president_____ruth dorer

secretary-treasurer_____doris creamer

the women's basketball club, organized two years ago for the purpose of affording those interested an opportunity of participating in this sport and at the same time a chance of forming social contacts with neighboring colleges, has carried on similar activities this year.

after several weeks of practice the girls engaged in four competitive games both home and away. they played single games with the alumni, panzer, and two with montclair. there was a short social gathering after each game at which the girls renewed old acquaintances and made new friendships.

as a fitting conclusion the club traveled to the trenton state teachers' college and took part in an all sports day. basketball, darts, table tennis, and swimming was the order for the day. at the end of these activities the trenton hostesses invited the girls to a social where they met the faculty and the students of other colleges, thoroughly enjoying every minute of the time.

a dinner held under the auspices of the women's alumni sports club was tendered members of the club in april. emblems and other awards were presented at the conclusion of the dinner.

basketball

the 1936 basketball team passed through a mediocre season again, winning six games and losing nine. the one ray of sunshine was the fine spirit of the cheerleaders and of course, the rooters who probably would have come for the dancing, anyhow, even if we were not represented on the court.

straying from the satirical path, it may be of interest to note that we did play several games this season that are worthy of mention. on january 18, in our gymnasium, our team showed a powerhouse of strength in defeating the wilson teachers' college of washington, d. c., 43 to 29 breaking up their southern style of attack from the outset.

the second of the outstanding games took place on february 7, when we visited the spacious trenton school teachers' college gymnasium. after a hectic battle, in which the lead changed hands a dozen times, we finally won 34 to 33. captain sam chernetsky netted the winning basket in the final minute of play.

in the return game against the trenton outfit on february 21, at home, we again played a sweet little game but succumbed in the final few minutes by the score of 35 to 31. a week later we entertained the east stroudsberg teachers of east stroudsberg, pa., and fell before them 40 to 35, fighting an uphill battle all through the game.

*Jack
Sam Chernetsky*

in what was probably the best played and most exciting game of the season we lost to the newark college of engineering team, 41 to 39, in an overtime contest, on march 3, in our battlefield. a packed gymnasium was kept in an uproar from the second period until the final whistle was blown, but even our mighty cheering could not hold down the determined band of engineers.

our triumphs consisted of single wins against wilson teachers' college, the bloomfield college and theological seminary, and the trenton teachers' college, and a pair of victories over the newark technical school.

we defeated bloomfield school 34 to 33, on february 4, at home, and the technical school, on january 21, at their court, 46 to 18, at home, on january 25, we again won from the technicians, 33 to 19. the alumni fell before us on our annual february 12 game 42 to 37, but the victory was somewhat expected as the graduates are getting on in years and are not as sprightly as they once were.

in other games we dropped a pair of decisions to the jersey city state normal school. the first we lost by a count of 31 to 28 on january 14, in the season's opener, and then dropped the second, 22 to 14, at their court on february 14.

the newark college of engineering handed us our second loss of the season on january 25, in their campbell gymnasium, 33 to 24. montclair state teachers' college presented one of the strongest teams in the history of their institution and we lost two more. on january 31, at montclair, we lost 35 to 23, and on february 18, we were trounced 38 to 22.

the season came to a close on march 6 when the first ten members of the squad, journeyed to washington, to engage the wilson team in the second game, but added another loss to the previous eight, losing six in a row. the score was 45 to 39.

if with the biggest aggregation of basketball players the school ever had we were able to win but six games in our regular schedule, it is our humble opinion that the 1937 team will do worse. our pessimism lies in the fact that graduation will take captain sam chernetsky, former captain charles detgen, eddie gadek, tom jannarone, milton lemerman, of the regulars, and nick fiore and joe pikus of the reserves, still, our reserves might surprise us all.

this year the golf team is celebrating its fifth birthday.

the lineup for what is expected to be a banner season will probably show art wenzel, varsity player since his freshman days and captain of the 1936 campaign, and sal rosario, another capable veteran, at the first two posts, while the remaining positions will be open to candidates manager frank falivena, vince sarnowski, bill frost, art goldberger, and joe pikus.

last year the golf team completed its campaign under the co-captainship of elmer williams and art wenzel. the schedule consisted of dual matches with the trenton state teachers' college, panzer college and upsala college. the team competing for the first time against schools of collegiate rank completed the season with an equal number of victories and defeats.

the most impressive win in the 1935 campaign was against panzer college. the w boys—williams and wenzel—shut out their opponents after a somewhat shaky start. sal rosario and bunts siderits finished even. our home course was the branch brook park layout with the best scores recorded by our boys as follows: elmer williams, 80; art wenzel, 83; sal rosario, 88; and bunts sideritz, 92.

elmer williams, varsity player, four years, played the number one position; art wenzel played at the second berth; sal rosario, a newcomer last year took care of the third notch; while bunts siderits played a steady game at fourth. playing manager frank falivena took his turn whenever there was a vacancy.

this season's campaign consists of dual matches with the trenton state teachers' college, panzer college, east stroudsburg teachers' college, and the city college of new york.

watch of silence

living forms surround the still-laid dead, keeping watch beside the lifeless shape where once was housed a throbbing soul which loved life well.
and mixed with these are silent things that symbolize the transient space that life itself fills in all the endless time that lies ahead eternally.
black holders with their candle flames casting o'er dark mahogany a shining glow—white satin, flowing lace—enclosing in their folds a still dead form.
many massed flowers, outdoors so brightly hued, yet now subdued in color to match with all the quiet encircling this new presence, from whom had lately fled, a vibrant life.
quiet voices, murmuring words of comfort
to those about who knew the loved one dead, now gazing down with mingled sorrow and dread upon the lifeless one.
tears from those who weep with easy flow for a life that was swiftly gathered from its stalk in all the glory of its matured and aging bloom of womanhood.
unshed tears from those who, close in living days to this one dead, cannot find now in flowing brine
a fit release from the choking, numbing grief which holds their hearts.
and over all the grief and stress of heart
a shining flame of faith reveals itself:
out in eternal regions now remote
the loved one waits.
beyond the breath of earthly vision's searching gaze
the spirit worked lies quietly, unexplored by any being who yet retains the wordly form of living clay.
still within each beating, hopeful human heart
some vestige of its promised splendor lurks, and though the years may dim their memory—
the dead live on.

do you pass

"a gentleman never neglects courtesy in little things." here is a statement worn by time, until it has become one of those sayings spoken too often with little or no thought given to the utterance.

but take a minute to consider its meaning. does it tell the truth? can you think of any exception for its rule?

if we were asked to give our definition of those qualities which a gentleman possesses, our answers would probably vary to some degree but would not all those qualities which we might name result from the unfailing practice of courtesy? can you think of any characteristic which would not be an outgrowth of courtesy?

if you are in accord with that conclusion, consider this question,—is there any one of us who would not like to consider himself (or herself) a gentleman (or a lady)? much as we hate to admit it, there are very few of us who do not think rather highly of ourselves. nevertheless, can we feel satisfied about our "rating" in this respect? are we likely to be more courteous to someone in a high position than to someone on a lower level? have we an "everyday" attitude and a "company" attitude which we parade at different times? are we ever too tired to "bother"?

we, the teachers of tomorrow, cannot be accepted as examples of the best american manhood and womanhood after which any child might profitably pattern his actions, unless we practice today, tomorrow, and everyday that quality which so easily becomes a habit and which is so universally appreciated—courtesy.

so will it rain

professor browne nervously looked up into the sky and saw a huge, black cloud hanging overhead. it worried him tremendously so he quickened his pace along the campus walk toward his home. his brain began to function. "that cloud", he thought, "it looks like rain and i have no rubbers on. what if it rains and my feet get wet? why didn't i wear those rubbers as i promised the wife i would? what will the little woman say if i get caught in the rain again and am laid up for another week with a cold?that cloudgod, those boys in that american problems class of mine are dumb. especially that redheaded one. he doesn't even know the first thing about court procedurecourt procedurecourtsthat black cloudsomeday i'll take that red head to a court and let him learn through observationcourtsheavy cloudsdark clouds"

plop! a raindrop on his bared head awoke him from his patched dreams and caused him to stop short. it was raining. of all the tough luck. again he looked up. the black cloud, which hovered over him seemed to outstretch its arms and entangle him within itself for, he felt as dark as the cloud looked. dark clouds cloudscourtsno rubbers. the ill-faded professor folded his light overcoat around himself and began to run. the rain came down harder, harder, puddles formed. slosh, slosh, through the puddles. feet wet, court procedure, dark clouds. running, blindly running through heavy rain.

all of a sudden his mad dash was halted—halted by coming in contact with a bulk of wet clothes.

"why don't cha look where you're goin?" the bulk yelled.

"sorry," mumbled the professor, and then a silent, "oh" as the bulk showed signs of recognition.

"why pete, you old son of a gun, what're you doin'?" thought you didn't like mustacheshaven't seen you since the night of the party. c'mon e-lu-ci-date."

"i beg your pardon, sir, but you must be mistaken in my identity. my name isn't pete, it's paul, and i never went to a party that you attended. good day."

the professor again picked up his heels and began his trot. the cloud's arms were clenching him tighter now. they had his heart. they were painting the soul a deep black; they were mixing his conscience with a wild concoction of awful memories. that manwhat a narrow escapecourt proceduredark cloudsand on he ran through the rain—the heavy, soaking, blinding rain.

the next morning found the professor in his usual place before the class in american problems, looking sadly different. his upper lip was a deep red from excessive blowing and sneezing; his face was white; his eyes overflowing and his hands unsteady. it was merely the after effects of an april shower.

"and now", he delicately whispered, "the class is dismissed. will the ones who wish to go with me to observe court procedure tomorrow kindly sign up on the way out."

as the boys emitted enthusiastic yelps on their way out, his head went "flop" on the desk and spun round and round. he was on a merry-go-roundker-choocourt procedure tomorrowker-choodark clouds.

the next day loomed bright and cloudless much to the professor's relief. he met the boys and they too were in high spirits. it was spring and everyone was instilled with the sparkling glow of happiness.

they filed into their reserved seats in the courtroom none too quietly and began to talk in loud tones. red's voice could be heard above the rest even after the gavel had been pounded. outside a small dark cloud was gathering in the distance and slowly moving toward the courthouse. soon, however, the boys quieted down and even red became interested in the lawyers and secretaries.

the professor, from the minute the court had been called to order, had changed. he was no longer bright; he was glum—the final summation of the prosecution was being given. that defendant—his pleading eyes. that heartless attorney. those accusations. as this was encircling the brain of the professor in the courtroom. outside the small dark cloud was quickly becoming darker and larger.

the voice of the attorney boomed. "and so, my friends, i have proved to you that this man, whose real name he admits is peter vandall, is the murderer of jackson wiley. although he swears he was not at the scene of the crime, indeed, that he didn't even know the victim, we know that this is not so. dead men never tell, but their letters do and when we have actually seen a letter from a friend of jackson wiley telling him to watch out for a man by the name of peter vandall who was in love with wiley's fiance, we know that vandall had a motive and had already shown signs of brutal intentions. i leave it to you. do you believe that this man here has been identified as being present at the night of the murder, innocent of the crime? you don't if you have a grain of intellect. his story of being in an amusement park from five to one doesn't hold together. i claim this man guilty of the murder of jackson wiley and am sure that you will too."

the defendant's half closed eyes protruded inhumanly from his blanched, bloodless face. there was not a bit of confidence in his whole self as he weakly looked at his lawyer for help. the whole courtroom buzzed with excitement after this convincing and powerful speech of the lawyer. a woman in the front, possibly the wife of the defendant, brushed a tear a way from her eye and heaved a pitiful sigh. everyone was moved but no one more so than the professor who had squirmed in his seat during the entire session. from time to time he had passed his hand over his forehead; had stared blankly at the people; hadn't heard the whispered questions of red, who didn't quite understand it all.

when the attorney had finished, the professor took a deep breath, swallowed hard and slowly rose to his feet. the students looked at each other in amazement.

"what's the old geezer up to now?" whispered one to another.

"don't know, but from the way he has been acting ever since the trial began you can be sure it will be something different."

"your honor", the professor steadily said.

the buzzing ceased, the coughing stopped, the chairs were stilled and there was a tense silence as hundreds of eyes focused themselves on the interferer. as he walked up the aisle the tension was broken and pandemonium ruled.

"order! order!" shouted the judge as he pounded the gavel. now if the gentleman will come forward we will hear what he has to say."

unhesitatingly professor browne made his way through the crowded courtroom. outside the building, the cloud was blacker and larger than it had ever been, but inside the soul of the man it was lifting and becoming shades lighter. he was not nervous, for a man about to atone his conscience is never nervous. his voice did not quaver as he was sure of what he was saying. he looked steadily at walter, the friend whom he had bumped into a few days ago, because he knew that walter would bear his short tale out.

so, without shouting, but in a voice clear and resounding, he cried, "your honor, these witnesses have mistaken the identity of this man in the defendant's chair. his name may be peter vandall; he may resemble the peter vandall that they know is the murderer but he is not your man.

"how do you know?" the judge quietly asked.

while outside the courthouse the large black cloud let forth its burden in the form of raindrops, inside the guilty professor let for his burden, releasing the clenching arms of the cloud, as he softly, yet unfalteringly answered, "because i am."

practice experience - - - once is enough

'ever hear of a unit? they tell me the schools are filled with them. authentically speaking, though, there was once a pilgrim unit with pupil participation—the pilgrims needed hair. what did they finally wear? all i know is that someone suggested string, someone else, cotton, and another young one said, "what about the fluff under the bed?"

after that came christmas. the class was so helpful. everyone kept bringing in things . . . any thing. when one unusually stubborn girl brought a large, bright picture of santa claus, the teacher placed it in the corner of the room opposite the door, so that every visitor could appreciate it. when the principal entered the next morning, the teacher's glance encountered the santa claus it advertised krueger's beer!

did you ever wish you had a goldfish family in your classroom? one girl's wish was fulfilled. a boy presented the fish, the bowl, and the food to the class. everyone had a chance to feed them. several days later, the boy's sister was taken to an isolation hospital with scarlet fever.

you know about plays, don't you? every practice makes for a more finished performance. on assembly morning, the mice's ears and tails were connected, the woodcutter's moustache and hatchet were in order, and the scenery was very congenial with the screen. the mice squeaked effectively, the scenery continued the friendship, and the woodcutter continued to chop trees with gusto even when his hatchet fell apart.

some teachers just can't be intimidated they move rivers as well as mountains. one teacher directed a class to find harrisburg in new jersey..

then, there was the case of the mug in "king of the golden river". what is a mug?" the teacher questioned. "a funny face," came the reply.

from what those children in the field tell me, there is a new kind lawnmower used. even the standard oil company used the goats.

normal book and supply store thru school cooperation the book store has grown into a profitable "department store". why not call it such when one thinks of our book, stationery, confectionery, departments?

the following is a comparative record of money taken in normal school accounts—recorded to the nearest dollar.

sept.	$391	$243	$573	$1159
oct.	259	584	947	1615
nov.	185	215	224	596
	$835	$1042	$1744	$3370

for the junior college which began in dec. 1933, we have the following record:

1934	1935
$1523	$2309

during the past fall term 2654 books were purchased by the store—1390 for normal schools students, 154 for extension students, 1110 for junior college. about 100 books were returned to publishing companies.

who buys all these books in the normal school? the following record refers to the fall term 1935:

850 books were purchased by the freshman
160 books were purchased by the 2nd year students 190 books were purchased by 3rd year students 100 books were purchased by 4th year students indications for the spring term tend to show that the upper classmen have purchased more books than the freshmen.

when all expenses are paid, the balance, if any, is given over to our student loan fund.

if it were not for the permanent interest and efforts of our competent advisor, mrs. plenty, that little room across from the cafeteria would not be the "business concern" it is today.
